ESSEN SEIZURE FIRST IN PLANS

Actual Occupation of this Teuton City Is Scheduled for Thursday by French—Two Regiments Already Ordered Forward from Epinal

Soldiers are Also Quietly Concentrating at Dusseldorf—Fast Tanks and Armored Cars Will Form Advance Guard of Invasion

(BY WEBB MILLER)

COBLENZ, Germany — (United Press) — French troops were on the march today, along the Rhine. Engineers and a detachment of railway workers have gone to Essen, first city to be seized as France takes steps to enforce reparations payments. Two regiments, one of artillery, one of infantry, have been ordered forward from Epinal.

Troops are quietly concentrating at Dusseldorf in small detachments. Fast tanks and armored cars will form the advance guard, it is reported, when actual invasion of the Ruhr starts.

All that was needed to put in motion the horizon blue machinery of war which France has drilled and kept so long thru the Rhineland was word from Paris that the reparations commission had formally found Germany in default.

TROOPS ARRIVE (United Press) — Fifteen hundred fresh French troops arrived at Dusseldorf Sunday and demanded accommodations. The mayor of the city notified the government today.

Three hundred automobiles were commandeered by the troops. Two schools and part of the bureau of finance were demanded as quarters for three hundred officers, the mayor reported.

The town is in a state of excitement. Tanks and cavalry patrol the streets. German officials believe troops will be sent forward to Essen immediately.

ACTION DUE TODAY (United Press) — Invasion of the Ruhr for which France pushed war-like preparations, depends upon action of the reparations commission which meets today. Germany is to be called to task for failing to supply required amounts of coal in 1922. If her explanation is unsatisfactory, invasion by France is believed certain to follow.

PLAN OF SEIZURE (Associated Press) — The occupation of Essen by a small French force accompanying engineers and customs officers, is now slated for Thursday morning, it was stated on good authority today.

Belgian and Italian engineers and technical experts will accompany the French but only the Belgians, it is understood, will contribute to the force of occupation.

France is going just far enough in action in the Ruhr to show Germany she is in earnest, it was said in official circles today.

There is every desire on the part of France, it is stated, to avoid any unnecessary show of force—any indication that the French government is disposed to rely on force alone to reach a satisfactory agreement with Germany.

MILITARY DISPLAY Premier Poincare does not intend to mobilize a single soldier in addition to the regular force—armies per call out a single additional railroad man to effect the operation, it is declared.

The silence of the government regarding its plan to seize guarantees conceals no designs to make a great show of military force, it is affirmed, but is only a natural precaution on the part of the authorities responsible for the success of so serious an undertaking as that in view.

It seemed certain this afternoon that the reparations commission would vote Germany in voluntary default on coal deliveries for last year, after the final hearing of the German experts which was set for three o'clock this afternoon.

CROSSON'S FIRST

Clifford Conley Initial Prisoner Taken by New Sheriff

Sheriff Harvey E. Crosson made the first arrest of his official career Sunday afternoon, when Clifford Conley, 33, was apprehended in a house in 1500 S. Main-st.

Conley was indicted by the January grand jury on non support charges. He made no resistance when taken and was lodged in the county jail to await arraignment before Judge Fred C. Becker.

HAROLD McCORMICK ILL.

OPERATED ON AT PARIS

PARIS — Harold McCormick, stricken suddenly, was operated upon at midnight for appendicitis. His condition today was announced as satisfactory.

Gianna Walska has abandoned her American opera tour and will nurse her millionaire husband.

Haggard after an all-night vigil, the Polish prima donna told the United Press:

"The operation was simply for appendicitis and has nothing whatever to do with the McCormick's divorce operation."

Three days must pass before the master magistrate can be declared safe, she said.

DONAHEY SWORN IN

OATH IS TAKEN ON PINE PLATFORM

USUAL PARADE IS OMITTED

Evening Reception is Substituted for Ball

COLUMBUS—(Associated Press) — A. V. Donahey of New Philadelphia, today became the fiftieth governor of the state of Ohio.

Transfer of authority from the hands of Harry L. Davis, Republican, to those of Mr. Donahey, Democrat, was accomplished in inaugural ceremonies remarkable for their brevity and simplicity.

From the time that the 166th Infantry band, which earned fame in France during the World War, opened exercises with a blaring march at 11:30 a. m., until Mr. Donahey had been formally and officially proclaimed the state's new chief executive, only one short hour had passed. The oath of office was administered with the governor standing on a rough pine platform on the steps of the capitol.

His official program one of efficiency and economy, Governor Donahey declared that he did not wish to spend prodigiously of either time or money, in the exercises attendant upon his assuming office, and his wishes were complied with.

DRESS SHORT He carried the program of brevity even farther than had been expected, and occupied only a few minutes with his inaugural address, which, under most circumstances, has been a lengthy discourse, intended not only for official acceptance, but also for a statement of policies, and the vehicle for various legislative recommendations.

Mr. Donahey's address was confined, as he said, merely to statements preparatory to transmission of his message to the legislature tomorrow, in which he promised a full statement of his hopes and intentions.

The only remaining event of the inaugural is a formal reception to be held tonight in the senate chamber in the state house. Here the new governor will receive the justices of the Ohio supreme court, state judiciary, state officials and officers of the army and navy, the Ohio national guard, and the public.

The official ceremonies of the day were opened by the invocation, asked by O. L. Mandabach, pastor of Shepherd M. E. church, Columbus, where Governor Donahey attended services during his two terms as state auditor. Then, as the pastor stepped back, Governor Davis, at the last act of his administration, presented the new chief executive with the commission showing that he had been duly elected governor.

The preliminaries dispensed with, Chief Justice Marshall of the Ohio supreme court, stepped forward in his sombre robes, and administered the oath. Mr. Donahey standing with arm upraised, and repeating the phrases after the chief justice. As this ceremony was completed, 17 field guns boomed out the governor.

RISE IN POLITICS "DUE TO TRYING TO BE RIGHT"

A. VICTOR DONAHEY

Ohio's New Governor Explains His Advancement From Printer to Executive Mansion

COLUMBUS—(Associated Press) — Less than 20 years ago, a printer living in New Philadelphia, concluded that he needed the best job in the city to support his large family. That job was a political one—county auditor.

Going after that job marked the real entrance of A. Victor Donahey into politics. Today he was inaugurated Ohio's governor.

From county auditor, the new governor says his political rise was due solely from "trying to be right." He said he did not lay claim to being right all the time. He admits having made mistakes, but having made a mistake and acknowledged it, he said he has tried never to repeat.

Vic Donahey is known by thousands of persons thruout the state, but perhaps those who know him best are the ones who have had an opportunity to sit around the table with him in his private office, with the doors shut, where there was no ban on putting any sort of story, or even resorting to a package of scrap. There the real Vic asserted himself, with a bang of fist on table, or a well emphasized remark.

DIES FROM SHOCK

Ohioan Expires Following Reading of Son's Arrest

COSHOCTON—(Associated Press) — Abraham L. Carman, 68, father of Frank B. Carman who is being held by New York police in connection with the $500,000 Schoellkopf jewel robbery, died suddenly at his home here today.

His death is said to have immediately followed reading of an account of his son's arrest, printed in a local paper. Carman has been an invalid for several years and it is believed that his weakened heart failed to withstand the shock of his son's disgrace.

CHICAGO ORCHESTRA TO PLAY FOR KIWANIANS

The F. & P. orchestra, of Chicago a seven piece organization, will be the principal attraction at the weekly Kiwanis club luncheon at the Argonne Hotel Tuesday noon, Clayton Payne announced.

This orchestra may be employed to furnish music at the Governor's ball, January 16.

Dismissed After Being Lectured by Judge Jackson for Failure to Clear Snow Off Walks—Twenty-five May Draw Fines

City Scored by Court Account Condition of Street Crossings And Bridges—Charge May be Filed Against City Manager

Rich men, poor men, society matrons, charwomen, bankers, manufacturers, mechanics, janitors, laborers—in fact, men and women from every walk of life—stood on equal ground Monday, when they appeared in criminal court to answer charges of failing to clear snow from sidewalks about their property.

The group assembled before Judge Emmett Jackson constituted one of the most metropolitan bodies of Lima citizens ever assembled in one group. Trimly-clad grande dames stood side by side with overalled workers and offered excuses and alibis for failing to obey the law, with the same fervent hope of being shown clemency.

Out of the total of $6 ordered Saturday by police to appear in court, 61 answered their names. Of the remainder, 16 failed to appear and nine affidavits were for vacant lots, the owners of whom police have not yet located.

JUDGE SCORES CITY

Those who appeared were called before the judge and permitted to make a plea. After the entire number had offered excuse, Judge Jackson lectured the group and insisted that in the future the law be obeyed. They were then released.

While he impressed upon those in court that snow must be removed from walks, four hours after the snow storm, has stopped, on a four hour after dawn, Judge Jackson was even more severe in his criticism of the city for failure to perform duties it is insisting private property owners do.

Those who disregarded the police order will be brought into court on warrants, according to the judge, and will be fined. The owners of vacant properties who failed to answer for their lots will in all likelihood be dealt with in a similar manner, the court asserted.

The city, according to the judge, is held responsible for the crossings and bridges, and is liable for its failure to keep them clean.

Following this statement, citizens who were brought into court, discussed the feasibility of filing an affidavit against C. A. Bingham, city manager, as head of the city.

Such an affidavit, however, was not drawn up at noon Thursday.

The assembly in court for the most part seemed to regard the affair as a joke, although all asserted they realized the sidewalks should be kept free of snow.

Of the 61 who answered to their names, three made unqualified pleas of guilty, the remainder offering alibis or excuses for their negligence.

ALIBIS OFFERED ARE VARIED

Best excuse offered Judge Jackson Monday morning for failure to clean the snow off his sidewalks, was made by C. A. Hoyer, 783 W. Market-st.

"My shovel broke," he said. Oldest citizen who appeared to answer to her name was Mrs. Mary Cramer, 317 N. Pine-st. She is 80 years old, and was accompanied to the court room by Mrs. R. C. Borrick, 60, 319 N. Pine-st. The women reside alone and asserted they were unable to obtain boys to clean their walks and that they did the work themselves.

"Had to be at work on time; and couldn't stop long enough to clean my walk"—this excuse was offered by approximately 60 per cent of those halled into court.

The most novel plea offered was made by M. A. Ireland, 505 E. North-st. "Guilty until 5 o'clock," was his response.

Dr. Stanley Mumagh, 208 S. Pierce-st, was the only professional man to answer roll call. He was the most excited of the entire group.

Mrs. Cora Orr, 137 N. West-st, was the only citizen represented by an attorney. She has been in the hospital for several weeks and was unable to appear.

The board of education was represented by H. Horn, janitor of Garfield school. His excuse was that it was impossible for him to clean the 400-feet of walk in the prescribed time. He was advised to request assistance for this work.

Chief of Police Lanker guaranteed to supply prisoners from the city jail to clean walks in less than 30 minutes to all citizens who are unable to obtain help following future snow storms.

"They will be glad to obtain a little money and the exercise will be of great physical benefit to them," he declared.

GOETTLING TAKEN FOR MURDER

WAS DISCHARGED AS CURED

Used Ax in Slaying Cleveland Merchant, is Charged

Fred Goettling, former prisoner at the Lima State hospital, released recently, was arrested in Cleveland, Sunday, charged with the murder of Harry Keim, 46.

Keim's body was found hacked to pieces, the murderer having used an ax, taken from the stock in the Keim hardware store, where the body was located later. Cleveland police were prepared Monday to compare bloody finger prints, photographed from the ax handle, in an effort to connect Goettling with the slaying of Keim. They also said they expected to formally charge the suspect with murder.

Keim apparently battled fiercely for his life, but was felled under murderous blows from the ax. Indications are that he was struck several times with the weapon after his death.

Goettling, his clothing and shoes covered with bloodstains, was arrested at his home in the neighborhood of the Keim store shortly after the crime was discovered. A lodge receipt issued to Keim was found in his possession, according to police.

CONFESION A FAKE Goettling was released from the Lima State hospital after it had been definitely established that his confession of the murder of Miss Louise Wolfe and Miss Mabel Foote, Parma Heights school teachers, was without foundation in fact. He was committed to the Lima institution two years ago after he had written an anonymous letter to Cleveland police, in which he admitted beating the women to death with a club.

Later, he established an alibi, however, and repudiated his confession, saying he had written the letter as a joke.

Nineteen years ago, Goettling was convicted of a murder which parallels that of Keim and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Mansfield reformatory.

He later was adjudged insane and transferred to the Lima state hospital and later dismissed as cured.

When arrested Sunday Goettling told the police that the blood on his clothes was the result of a fight he and a companion had had with a negro Saturday night. Questioned by the police, his companion admitted having been with Goettling early Saturday evening but denied they had been in a fight.

TEN INJURED WHEN TRAIN HITS TRUCK

FRIMMONT, Ohio—Ten persons were injured, two perhaps fatally, when a double header Lake Shore electric limited train bound from Cleveland to Detroit, crashed into a stalled motor truck at McWherson's crossing, five miles west of here, Sunday night.

The leading car was thrown from the track and onto its side but the second car did not leave the rails. The passengers in the overturned car were rescued by farmers who, armed with axes, cut holes thru the roof of the car.

The most seriously injured are William Helm, 68, Fremont merchant, back believed broken, and Mattia Thomas, Detroit, injured about face and body.

All the injured were brought to hospitals here.

NEW GOVERNOR ASKS SUPPORT

COLUMBUS—(Associated Press) — Governor Donahey's inaugural address follows:

"In common with several elected state officials, representing two political parties, I have just taken the oath of office which requires the governor of Ohio to support the constitution of the state and the United States and to enforce faithfully all laws. I have done so without mental reservation. Without the loyal support of the public, however, the governor will be helpless. At the outset, therefore, I must appeal to the good will and the helpful support of the people, as well as of all officials. If I am to fulfill the vow I have just taken,

"Permit me to outline briefly a few specific duties affecting the economic and social welfare of the people, which our constitution and laws impose upon the chief executive. The constitution declares that the supreme executive power of this state shall be vested in the governor. This necessarily embraces the appointment of departmental officials and employees; and I promise to appoint only honest, capable and efficient men and women. I shall not knowingly appoint any who are dishonest or inefficient.

OLD FASHIONED DISCIPLINE "The constitution further confers upon the governor the right to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons. I pledge that there shall be no abuse of this power. Society can protect itself only by strict enforcement of penal laws. One of the greatest dangers confronting our country today, in my opinion, is a tendency to a disregard for old fashioned discipline in both public and private life.

"The constitution provides also that the governor shall be commander-in-chief of the military and naval forces of the state. I hope I may never be required to exercise this prerogative, but, if necessary to proserve the peace and guard the safety of our people, I shall not hesitate in the performance of this duty.

"The governor is required under the constitution to fill vacancies that may arise on the bench of Ohio and its subdivisions. You may rest assured that I shall appoint judges of ability, honesty and fitness, and not mere politicians. The last hope and security of our people lies in a pure, non-partisan judiciary.

POWER TO VETO "The governor by law is given the power to veto acts of the general assembly. It is his duty to exercise this power, delegated by the people, I shall not hesitate and shall file with the veto a message giving my reasons therefor.

"I shall in no way attempt to encroach upon the prerogatives of the general assembly, but will seek in every manner possible to be helpful to the end that the people's government shall be economically and con-strictly administered. "The constitution provides that the governor send a message to the general assembly, showing the condition of the state and bringing to the attention of the lawmakers such subjects as a governor may deem expedient. I shall do that tomorrow. It will be a message not merely to the legislature but to the people of Ohio. I hope you may read it and advise your able servants if the policies enunciated do not meet with your approval.

A second message to the general assembly at an early date will be of vital importance to all the people and I ask that you give it your earnest consideration.

"At all times I shall attempt to be a true spokesman of the people and I have no desire except to carry out their will. You have elected me governor for a two year term. With the help of the Divine Providence I pledge myself to be a governor of all the people, 'sink or swim, live or die, survive or perish.'"

HOPE FOR POSTOFFICE IN LIMA IS SHATTERED

Chairman of House Appropriations Committee Says No Public Buildings Will be Considered During Present Congress—Reasons Given

WASHINGTON—(United Press)—Hope of Cleveland, Akron, Columbus, Cincinnati, Lima, Springfield, Zanesville and other Ohio cities of getting new postoffice buildings authorized by this congress were shattered today by an announcement of Chairman Martin B. Madden of the house of appropriations committee that no public buildings bill will be considered by his committee.

Madden and other powerful house leaders are ready to oppose vigorously advocates of new buildings, regardless of how urgently these structures are needed. Need for governmental economy, combined with the high cost of construction, now are reasons given by Madden for opposition to the building program. It is extremely unlikely that Madden's opposition will be overcome.

VOLSTEAD WARNS

Sees Danger in Proposed Drastic Dry Legislation

WASHINGTON—(United Press)—Prohibition enforcement may be crippled by enactment of some of the drastic legislation recently proposed in congress, Representative Volstead, Minnesota, father of the present enforcement act, warned today.

Volstead, who as dry as ever, looks with disfavor on the efforts of other prohibitionists to make the law that bears his name more drastic. He believes some of the changes proposed by other drys would make bootlegging easier.

The prohibition leader announced his opposition to the plan of Representative Volstead, who after charging that government officials were violating the prohibition law, introduced a bill to make the purchasers of illicit liquor equally guilty with the bootlegger.

THREATENED BLUE LAW APPLICATION AT CELINA FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

Blue laws were not imposed upon business concerns and others in Celina Sunday, as had been threatened, growing out of the arrest of Robert Mason, on a charge of operating the Fayette moving picture show on the previous Sunday.

Mayor J. L. Morrow gave no orders for a light Sunday, Marshal John Heistand stated, and no move was made to close up the town.

Maxson, whose arrest started the trouble, has not been placed on trial. His theatre was closed yesterday as was also the Strand, Maxson and Fendell Johnson, who later from Wapakoneta, are the owners of both the Celina theatres.

Everything was open as usual in Celina Sunday, and officials had no comment to make.

DR. C. L. MUELLER NAMED AS HEALTH COMMISSIONER BY AUGLAIZE-CO BOARD

Announcement of the appointment of Dr. C. L. Mueller, Wapakoneta physician, to succeed Dr. Lyne as Auglaize-co health commissioner, was made Monday.

Board of health of Auglaize-co has retained the services of Miss Lucy Zirkle, county health nurse, due to a small epidemic of smallpox which has broken out. No success has been made in the case.

While a large deficit in the appropriation for county nursing is felt, officials expect to raise the fund to $1,500, the yearly salary, thru the sale of Christmas stamps, full return of which are still out.

WATSON OBSEQUIES TO BE HELD TUESDAY, AT HOME

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice May Watson, 68, wife of A. C. Watson, will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. at the family residence, 574 W. Springfield, in charge of Rev. Samuel Huecker, pastor of Market Street Presbyterian church. Burial in Woodlawn cemetery. Mrs. Watson died suddenly Saturday from Bright's disease.

Mrs. Watson (nee Alice May Man-kopf) was born at West Alexandria, Pa. Her grandfather on her mother's side was the owner of a large tract of land where Germantown, Pa., is now located. She was educated at Buchtel college, Akron, now the University of Akron, and was engaged as an instructor there for some time after her graduation.

She was married at the age of 26 years. Mrs. Watson was the mother of five children, four of whom survive. Two brothers, John Man-kopf of Memphis, Missouri and Dr. B. F. Mankopf, of St. Louis, had not arrived Monday morning.

The children of Mrs. Watson are: Mrs. Cable, wife of Congressman John L. Cable, Washington; Mrs. Verr Downing, Columbus; Mrs. Gale Cable, Canton and Earl Watson, Cleveland, are here for the obsequies.

BEG YOUR PARDON

D. J. Cable, president of the Lima City Street Railway Co., says the first new one-man cars for use in Lima are for delivery on or before February 1, and that the remaining 15 are for delivery on or before March 1, 1923, which is within the contract between the company and city. It was announced in The News last Friday that new cars would be in operation here during January.

WOMAN PAYS? ACHMED SAYS SHE DOESN'T

ACHMED ABDULLAH

Does the woman pay?
"Certainly not!" answers Achmed Abdullah, the Afghan writer of colorful stories of oriental life.

"If, occasionally, she does give the impression that she's paying," he continues, "the man's always indorsed the check and has to meet it when it comes back from the bank stamped 'No funds'."

"Personally I believe in equal rights for men. I'm a militant believer in this creed. But I can't say I've had much success. Centuries of prejudice, centuries of enslavement to the female of the species have made the odds hard to overcome. But I shall carry on."

"And one of the Equal Rights for Men League's slogans is that, while woman's never paid heretofore, she jolly well ought to pay."

"Man is more sentimental than woman, more honorable, more soulful, more unselfish, altogether a finer, purer product. And woman, these many centuries, has taken advantage of him."

"But 'Der Tag' will come."

EARL DELPH, CONVICTED OF NON SUPPORT, IS MADE DIVORCE SUIT DEFENDANT

Conviction of Earl C. Delph, Tipton, Indiana, on non support charges, was followed in common pleas court Monday by institution of divorce action by Louise Delph.

Delph was indicted by the September grand jury and was recently arrested at Tipton and brought to Lima. He pleaded guilty before Judge Fred C. Becker. After giving $500 bond to insure payment of support money, he was released.

Mrs. Delph asserts that aside from the money paid under the court order, she has not had one cent from her mate since their marriage in 1919. There is one child, Earl, Jr., age two years.

Alimony and custody of the child is sought.

DURBIN IS SUED FOR MONEY

Former Client Seeks to Recover Sum of $376

Francis W. Durbin, attorney Savings building, was made defendant in a suit filed by George Fowble, in common pleas court Monday, in connection with the alleged retention of money.

Fowble charges that Durbin has in his possession the sum $376.55, advanced by him on May 17, for the purpose of paying releasing and cancelling two chattel mortgages.

The instruments were executed by Art Fowble, who was later convicted in probate court and committed to Toledo workhouse on a statutory charge, preferred in behalf of two immature girls, said to be his victims.

Durbin was counsel for Art Fowble. The money is said to have been turned over to him as a surety for the payment of his fee.

The mortgages were held by the Solomon Loan Co. and the Timmerman Motor Sales company and covered a Ford sedan, and Ford runabout.

The petition recites that the cars were to be taken to the Lima Lexington company, and sold after the mortgages were paid off.

Durbin was to return the money advanced to the plaintiff, it is alleged.

This was not done, Fowble avers. The cars were sold, the sedan bringing $510, and the runabout $155.

Durbin was out of the city Monday, and no statement could be obtained from him.

GASOLINE CARS MAY BE USED ON LIMA-DEFIANCE ELECTRIC RAILWAY LINE

Gasoline cars may replace the electric operated coaches now in use on the Lima-Defiance branch of the Indiana, Columbus and Eastern Railway, if a group of shippers purchase the road, R. R. Trubey, counsel for patrons announced Monday.

Proposal to change the motive power from electricity to gasoline will be submitted before a meeting of persons interested at Defiance Tuesday night.

C. G. Taylor, president of the American Railway Operating company and A. D. Bowen, of the American Railway Motor Car company, will explain their proposal to the meeting.

Gasoline cars are now in operation on the Norwalk & Shelby Traction system. Prior to taking over the road, the line was in similar financial condition as the Defiance line. It is now on a paying basis, reports indicate.

Use of gasoline cars will cut motive power costs from 49 cents per mile to 15 cents per mile. Two men operate each car. The saving is nearly 70 per cent, promoters claim.

If the line is taken over it will be entirely refinanced, Trubey said.

RAIL EMBARGO PROTESTS ARE FILED FROM DELPHOS

Protests regarding the Pennsylvania railroad freight embargo, which has been in effect more than two months are being received. Large manufacturing plants and regular shippers of large amounts are not affected, but the small shippers are bearing the brunt of the embargo, officials say.

No relief is in sight, it was said. A cut of near $6,000 in revenue has been made at Delphos since the embargo began.

Shippers can only be sent as far east as Mansfield, Columbus and Dresden.

CLEAR WALK; TED ESCAPES

Continued unsettled weather conditions appears to be the portion that is faced by the citizenry of Lima and vicinity, according to the current forecast, sent out from Columbus.

Unsettled, probably snow or rain tonight and Tuesday; no change in temperature. That very likely means more snow or more rain, to try the souls of those who are required to get about in the open and haven't the use of an auto, not even a Ford.

Physicians urge that feet be kept dry and warm and shoe salesmen offer their stocks, but slush water manages to get in its work somehow.

Clad in keeping with the state of the weather, to guard against germs that lurk about to attack those weakened by exposure. Ted fearlessly slashed thru the snow and water throat the day, the same as other citizens.

Fortunately, he was not one of the 86 ordered into police court for failure to rid the "walk in front of his domicile of ice and snow in the required length of time, in accordance with the provisions of a city ordinance.

Howard Mitchell, 19, of 931 S. Main-st., who escaped from the Hardin-co. jail last week, gave himself up at the police station Sunday afternoon.

Mitchell was being held in Kenton on a charge of robbing a jewelry store and was taken to the front steps of the court house to be photographed, where he broke away from the officers and escaped.

Police were unable to obtain trace of the fugitive from justice until he voluntarily surrendered himself. Mitchell was taken to Kenton Monday morning.

At the same time, Charles Turpin, 18, of 345 S. Union-st. and Omer Garner, 19, of 346 S. Union-st., who were arrested on warrants from Kenton, were turned over to authorities there.

LANCKER ASKS AID

Seeks Citizen Cooperation — Backed by Ministers

In order to function at its highest efficiency, the police department of any city must have the unqualified cooperation of every civic organization and club.

Elaborating on this subject, Chief of Police T. A. Lancker gave a comprehensive resume of crime conditions in Lima, at the regular meeting of the Ministerial association Monday noon at the Y. M. C. A.

Problems which confront the department were told and the manner in which the police is hampered was also discussed.

Following Lancker's address, the association thanked the chief and adopted unanimously the following resolution:

"Resolved that so long as the police department gives evidence of its purpose to enforce the law without fear or favor, we, the members of the Lima Ministerial association, pledge it our united effort."

FARM BUREAU TEAMS SWING INTO ACTION IN COUNTY DRIVE FOR NEW MEMBERS

Farm Bureau membership solicitation teams began their concerted campaign for new members in parts of Bath and American-tips Monday morning, it was announced at farm bureau headquarters.

Seven teams, consisting of two men each, opened up the work and as the drive progresses more teams and workers will swing into action in other portions of the county, W. R. Price, president, announced.

Five of the teams were working in Bath and two in American-tips. Other teams to be added Tuesday will concentrate its efforts in the latter township.

Annual meetings of cooperative elevators, telephone companies and other farmers' organizations are hindering the campaign as a large number of the farmers are at the meetings and cannot be reached.

More than 40 farmers have already enrolled in the farm bureau, it was announced Monday. Most of these memberships were voluntary and came without solicitation.

Approximately 30 teams have been signed up and are ready to go to work as soon as the campaign reaches their township, Price asserts. It is planned to complete the solicitation within two weeks.

DELPHOS LECTURE COURSE NUMBER, TUESDAY NIGHT

For the first time since the Delphos lyceum season opened, Jefferson high school Tuesday night will conduct the fourth number of the program without financial difficulties.

A deficit of $200 was incurred, but according to Sam Warner, principal, a carnival held in December, wiped it out.

Chancellor George Henry Bradford will speak Tuesday night at Jefferson auditorium on "This Way Up."

There will be one more number on the course—the Davis Operatic company in February.

TWO MEN ARE FINED FOR STEALING COAL

Howard McBride, 27, of 1121 S. Main-st. and Carl Miles, 25, of 1123 S. Main-st., arrested Sunday afternoon on a charge of stealing coal from the B. & O. Railroad, pleaded guilty before Judge Jackson Monday morning and were each fined $5.

According to their stories, they were without money and needed coal to keep warm. They were granted time in which to pay their fines.

30 NOMINATED FOR BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF MERGED C. C. AND BUSINESS BUREAU

Announcement that the nomination of 30 men for position on the board of governors of the Chamber of Commerce and Better Business bureau have been completed was made at a meeting of the joint merger committee, Monday.

Full report of the nominations, with perhaps a brief outline of the reasons for their selection and the work they will be asked to do in making the organization a success, will be told by Tom Schoonover at the annual business meeting Wednesday night.

This assembly will be one for business only, it was announced, and it is planned to have the ideals and desires of the new organization explained to the membership by speakers selected from the various interested groups.

As the number of plates which can be laid for the dinner is somewhat limited, it is desired that reservations be made as early as possible, although the time limit has been extended to Wednesday noon for those whose business interests might otherwise keep them away.

SENATOR WILLIS HERE,
EN ROUTE TO BEDSIDE
OF H. F. LEHR AT ADA

"America will not be involved in the present European crisis, if there is any way I can prevent it."

This was the assertion of Senator Frank B. Willis, who made a flying visit to Lima Monday, en route to the bedside of Prof. H. F. Lehr, former president of Ohio Northern university.

"I befriended me in boyhood," declared Senator Willis, "and made possible what little success I have. It is the only chance I will have to see him before returning to Washington."

Professor Lehr, is reported to be dangerously ill.

THRIFT CAMPAIGN SOON TO OPEN

Chairman J. E. Galvin Announces
Plans For Week

SPEAKERS TO AID EFFORT

Will Start On January 17,
Franklin's Birthday

Preparations to demonstrate the value of thrift to every person in Lima during Thrift Week, January 17 to 23, are rapidly nearing their culmination, J. E. Galvin, general chairman, announced Monday.

Practically every organization in the city is being lined up in an effort to drive home the lesson that thrift is necessary if the American people are to take their place among the nations of the world. Twenty-five speakers are being lined up for an intensive campaign in the theaters, factories, schools and before luncheon clubs. Short talks driving home the lessons of saving will be given by them.

Introduction of the budget book in the families of the city will be conducted under the direction of the Federation of Women's Clubs. It is to check extravagance wherever possible, it is pointed out.

It is also planned to establish thrift kitchens thruout the city and teach housewives the best methods of buying and preparing foods and for the management of the household.

COMMITTEE NAMED
Large quantities of literature calling to the attention of every citizen the need for more careful checks on expenditures will be distributed by the publicity committee, headed by R. E. Ashley.

Members of the executive committee, representing various interests are: J. E. Galvin, Howard Dean, Samuel Huecker, Charles Lynch, J. E. Morton, R. T. Gregg, J. I. Motter, J. E. Collins, Mrs. Beecher Moke, Maurice Conner, L. L. Ludwigs, Mayor Harold Cunningham, P. J. O'Connor, Don Campbell, C. A. C. Jacob, H. E. Simonton, Ruth Seymour, T. P. Pearson and L. A. Larson.

Thrift week will commence January 17, the birthday of Benjamin Franklin, and will continue one week. The seven days will be named as follows: Thrift Day, Budget Day, Life Insurance Day, Own Your Own Home Day, Share With Others Day, Buy Your Own Savings Plan Day and Make a Will Day.

Ten rules as a basis for the thrift foundation are Work and Earn, Make a Budget, Record your Expenditures, Have a Bank Account, Carry Life Insurance, Own Your Own Home, Make a Will, Pay Bills Promptly, Invest in Safe Securities and Share with Others.

WAPAK WOMAN DIES
Mrs. Helena Morris, 79, died at the family home near Wapakoneta. She was the widow of Henry Morris. Surviving children are: Charles Morris, Cridersville; Mrs. El Burden, Wapakoneta; Mrs. George Briggs, Union; William, Nelson, Jerome, Allee, Jennie and Bertha at home.

COMMISSIONERS REFUSE PAROLE FOR RUM RUNNER

Second attempt made by Ben Brown, Cleveland rum runner, serving out a $2,000 fine in the county jail to reach the great outdoors, ended in failure Monday when the county commissioners turned down his plea for a parole.

Brown was arrested at the Metropolitan garage, E. Spring-st., with 220 quarts of Canadian and American whiskey packed in a roadster, specially constructed for the purpose.

Commissioners refused a parole to Brown and other liquor men prior to Christmas. No releases will be made at this time, they say.

PLAN INNOVATION AT DINNER MEET

Women To Have Part In Assembly Of Business Bodies

ELECT GOVERNORS, OFFICERS

C. C., Better Business Bureau
Event, Wednesday

An innovation in annual meetings of civic organizations will be seen at the first annual assembly of the Chamber of Commerce and Better Business bureau Wednesday, at the Elks' home, James E. Morton, manager, announced Monday.

A special section for business women, wives of members and any women who may be interested in civic advancement, will be provided. Miss Marietta Day, assistant to Morton, will be in charge of the arrangements.

Reservations for the dinner give promise of being very heavy. R. E. Ashley, executive secretary of the organization, said Saturday. Application for tickets will be received until noon of the day of the dinner.

Business of the meeting will center around the election of the board of governors and later the election of officers for the merged organizations and the statement of the policy which will be followed during the year.

Names of 25 or more of the leading business men of the city are being selected by the joint committee which planned the merger and which is now in charge of the resultant organization. From these names the board of governors will be chosen and they will in turn elect the officers.

POLICY OF BODY
Outlining of the policies for the coming year will either be in the hands of one local speaker or will be covered by a series of addresses by representatives of the merchants, manufacturers and farmers' organizations.

This policy will carry as its chief plank the declaration that the organization's first duty will be to prevent the exploitation of the people of Lima thru fraudulent securities or misrepresented goods, Morton said.

Many thousands of dollars are thus diverted each year, Morton said, and it will be the business of the body to investigate thoroughly every proposition and do everything possible to keep the city's funds ready for the development of local industries and for the purchase of goods from Lima dealers.

Members of the joint merger committee which is planning the meeting and who will play a large part in the final organization of the combined bodies are Glen Webb, George Eckert, E. T. Lippincott and George Metheny from the chamber of commerce and Roy Gregg, Tom Schoonover, Howard Dean and M. M. Keltner from the Better Business bureau.

LODGE NOTICES
Lima Council, No. 528, Security Benefit Association, will meet in Eagles Hall, Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. There will be a short session of the lodge. Captains ask their teams to be present to make final arrangements. Card party and refreshments.

Regular communication of Garret Wyckoff Lodge No. 585 F. and A. M., Monday at 7:30 p. m. Work in the Fellowship degree. Visiting brothers welcome.

Election of officers of the Past Worthy Matrons of O. E. S. will be held Monday evening at 7:30 in the Shrine Room of the Masonic Temple.

Covered dish dinner will be held Friday, at 5 p. m. by Rabbott Shrine W. S. of J. Regular business and initiation at 7:30 p. m. Visiting members welcome.

Installation of officers will be held at the meeting of the Daughters of Veterans Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at Memorial hall. A large attendance is desired.

GETS COMMISSION
J. W. Brackney, Auglaize-co commissioner, has received his commission for a four year term, from the secretary of state. Its issue was held up, pending decision on a case to decide whether commissioners were elected for two or four years.

CASES SETTLED
Because cases scheduled for Monday and Tuesday in common pleas court were settled outside of court by litigants, two jury panels called for Monday were ordered not to report until Wednesday, by John T. Comer, clerk of the courts.

TWO NEAR DEATH
Relatives of August Smith, former sheriff of Auglaize-co, a patient at St. Luke's hospital, have almost abandoned hope of his recovery, it is stated. A grandson of Smith, Cullen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Smith, is also reported near death at the parental home in Wapakoneta.

WINS ON TRYING TO DO RIGHT

means more to a man in politics than "No," the new executive says, asserting that he always has made frequent use of it.

"A public official should say 'No,' ninety per cent of the time," he declares, adding "that you can say 'Yes' tomorrow or next week if necessary."

"You can always say 'No' now and 'Yes' later, but it is a hard matter to say 'Yes' now and 'No' tomorrow," is Donahay's creed.

Altho brother Will is able to make the fairies and elf talk, in his comic strips in a Chicago newspaper, and brother Jim speaks his thoughts thru his cartoons in a Cleveland newspaper, Vic declares he is without artistic ability and "cannot draw a straight line, given a square and compass."

Vic attributes the artistic traits of the brothers to a strain coming down from his grandmother, a cousin of Robert Fulton, inventor of the steam boat, but probably a better artist than an inventor. One of the governor's daughters shows considerable ability as an artist.

BETTER IN SECOND RACE
The new governor will not say whether he expects to serve two terms as the state's chief executive. However, he points with considerable pride to the fact that he always has done better in the second race for political office, than in the first, and offers the following proof:

Back in 1900, the citizens of Goshen-tp, Tuscarawas-co, elected him township clerk, brushing aside a Republican plurality of 100. He was re-elected with an increased majority. In 1904, when he considers having made his first real step into the political arena he was elected auditor of Tuscarawas-co, overcoming a Republican majority of 500. Three years later, the county again went republican, Donahay was re-elected auditor by 2100 majority. The same results obtained in his two subsequent races for state auditor.

FIRST ATTEMPT
The governor's first attempt in state politics came in 1911, when he was elected a member of the state constitutional convention. In that convention he became known as the silent member—silent only in words.

He never made a speech during the many months the convention was in session. He devoted his time to organizing, and to correlating the numerous factions, thereby making it possible to obtain the adoption of many of the various proposals which finally were submitted for the people's approval. He was a member of the special committee which drafted the initiative and referendum amendment and was one of the proposal's staunchest supporters.

He also was a member of the committee, which, after the convention had wrestled for months with various wet and dry proposals, drafted the license amendment which was accepted by the convention almost without debate.

Admitting that it is quite a compliment and honor to be elected governor of the state, Donahay says the proudest moment of his life was when his fellow citizens honored him by electing him clerk of Goshen-tp. His eight years as state auditor, Donahay says he now looks back upon as so many years of honest effort to serve the state and its citizens, which he believes he did satisfactorily.

The new governor points with pride to the fact that he is strictly an Ohioan. Five generations of the Donahay family were born in the state, his grandfather, James M. Donahay, having been born in Jefferson-co in 1803, the year Ohio was admitted to statehood. His father, John C. Donahay, and most of his children were born in Tuscarawas-co, and his only grandchild was born in Toledo.

The Donahay home rests on a high hill, just outside of New Philadelphia. The new chief executive expects to spend Saturday and Sunday of each week there with his family, using the executive mansion in East Broad-st. here only as a place to live in during his working days in the capital. Mrs. Donahay, or one of the daughters, will be here with him most of the time. The children will be down occasionally, but for the most part, they will remain in New Philadelphia, where they attend school.

Perhaps the proudest possession of the chief executive are his ten, husky, rosy-cheeked children. Two are dead. Mrs. Donahay was Edith

OHIOAN SOUGHT IN WIFE'S DEATH

Beaver Woman is Brutally Murdered With Hammer

DAYTON — (United Press) — Authorities scoured Montgomery-co today for John Szabo, wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of his wife, Evelyn, declared by police to be one of the most diabolical crimes in the history of the county.

Mrs. Szabo's mutilated body, wrapped in a quilt, was found under the bed in the Szabo home at Beaver, near here. The skull had been crushed with a hammer, several teeth knocked out and all ribs on the left side fractured.

Szabo was arrested yesterday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Gertrude Miller, 14, who lived with the Szabos, but escaped enroute to jail before authorities learned of the murder of his wife.

Police declared a bloody hammer found in the room with Mrs. Szabo's body was the instrument with which she was beaten to death.

A nine-year-old boy, Szabo's son, is said to have been the only witness to the murder. Police said he was an imbecile and probably would be of little help in solving the crime.

PLANS BATTLE TO SAVE COOK

Woman in Michigan Millionaire's
Home May be Deported

MUSKEGON, Mich. — (Associated Press) — Eugene Meurer, millionaire paper manufacturer, was planning today to fight threatened deportation proceedings which would deprive him again of his cook, Miss Margaret Wasserman, 42 years old.

Miss Wasserman, whose culinary talents Meurer declared were essential to his health, was arrested here last night on instructions of Illinois authorities who alleged she entered the United States last year in violation of the federal statutes. She was taken to the county jail and released on bond of $1,000 furnished by Meurer.

The presence of Miss Wasserman in the Meurer home was the cause of a controversy between Meurer and his family culminating finally in a divorce. In a property settlement at the time Meurer gave his wife $50,000 and announced he had awarded Miss Wasserman $40,000 as a reward for her services.

Miss Wasserman's arrest is said to have been based on affidavit made in New York December 6, by Mrs. Walter Voith, daughter of Meurer, in which she alleged Miss Wasserman's position in the household was not strictly that of a cook, that she was a German citizen and that she had made statements derogatory to the United States.

"Attack Upon Heaven" Launched
by Russian Communists

WORLD'S RELIGIONS MOCKED

Grotesque Carnival Procession is Held at Moscow

MOSCOW — (Associated Press) — The Young Communists, observing the Christmas of the Gregorian calendar year, launched their widely heralded "attack upon heaven" in a grotesque carnival procession that was a mockery of the world's great religions.

The climax of the celebration came when the young people gleefully tossed into a huge bonfire straw and paper figures representing the deities of the Christian, Mohammedan, Jewish and Buddhist religions.

The Russian Communists had been especially chosen by the Young Communists as the occasion for shattering by mockery the ancient yuletide story and the traditions which their organization holds as "religious myths," hence the procession that increased the streets of Moscow today held few reminders of the old time Christmas celebrations of the Russian church.

DIETIES CARTOONED
Flaming stars of red, buttesques of the star of Bethlehem, were borne aloft at the head of the parade, followed by posies and banners upon which were depicted cartoons of deities and saints. No icons, no reminders of the church processions that in the past have marked the advent of the Christmas festival were in evidence. The songs were jarring parodies of the splendid carols or chants of the Russian church. Goblin-like burlesques of the gods of all peoples alternated with motor trucks upon which rode students and young women dressed as caricatures of religious dignitaries, placards proclaimed such Communist doctrines as "Religion is the opiate of the people" and "man made God in man's image, not God man in His."

"For fifteen years I have suffered from indigestion and have taken all kinds of medicines, but I have never found anything to benefit me like Tanlac has," recently declared Mrs. Mary A. Day, a highly respected resident of 6524 Bellefontaine-st., Indianapolis, Ind.

"After my meals, food would soar on my stomach and cause awful gas pains, bloating and smothering sensations. At times, I thought my heart would actually stop beating. It interfered with my rest at night so much that I was hardly ever able to get to sleep until midnight, and I was often unable to do my housework."

"A few days after I started on Tanlac, I noticed an improvement, and I was soon eating heartily and without feeling any distress. Since then, I have taken the medicine occasionally and it tones up my appetite and digestion every time. Tanlac is splendid and I believe it will overcome any kind of stomach trouble."

LESS SPEED, MORE SAFETY

OFFICIALS of county, city, town and village may inveigh against killing of citizens at grade crossings by hurtling masses of heavy material on wheels rushing over steel rails. Demands of all kinds for safety devices for the protection of citizens may be made, but the destruction of life will go on so long as railroad companies frame fast train schedules and grade crossings are maintained.

Until such time as all death traps are eliminated, there is only one practical plan for the elimination of killings. That is less speed for trains thru centers of population, at least. With growing numbers of automobiles coming into use, unprotected grade crossings in the open country are more and more a menace, but records show the greatest number of fatalities occur at street crossings in municipalities.

No matter what sort of laws are enacted by the legislature or rules adopted by the utilities commission of the state, fatal accidents will continue to furnish material for the daily newspapers and homes will be saddened by the snuffing out of lives by iron monsters. There are few places where safety devices protect crossings 24 hours a day and even where such service is maintained, accidents continue.

Within the past two weeks six lives have been sacrificed on one railroad in Allen-co. So long as conditions exist as they are at present, anyone required to pass over a railroad track is in danger. If interurban or street cars were hurried thru space in city streets at the speed demanded of steam road trains, the loss of life would be appalling.

We are living in a period when human life is the toll paid for speed. So long as we continue the development of mania for hurrying in the annihilation of space the penalty must be paid—more lives!

LIMA AS A LOCOMOTIVE CENTER

PERSISTENT denials of a merger between the Lima Locomotive Works and the Baldwin company have not dispelled the belief that this city is eventually to become the center of activities of the United States in the manufacture of steam locomotives.

It has been known for some time past that an agreement or understanding between the two great companies, one in the east and the other in the middle west, has resulted in the Lima concern getting a proportionate share of all the major orders for locomotives. Contracts that mount to millions have been placed here in the past and more are coming along continuously.

When the Lima Locomotive Works was established, the paramount idea was the reduction of distribution costs of finished product. Almost centrally located in the United States, its output can be sent in any direction at practically an average cost for delivery. Assembly of material and fuel for the manufacturing process was also a big item considered.

Success of the Lima plant has been wonderful. Its growth has been remarkable. A few years ago it was believed that further expansion would be unnecessary for some time. But the reverse has proven to be the case. Doubling of capacity has become a necessity.

Whereas, in other years that are now of the past, the Lima plant was in the position of being grateful for the bestowal of crumbs that fell from the tables of other great plants, it is now in a ranking position with others and is expected to become the greatest of them all in the production of steam locomotives.

This will be made possible if the Baldwin company confines its operations to the manufacture of electrical locomotives, as is being persistently reported. Emerging from the building of small type locomotives, the Lima plant is now handling orders for the largest equipment demanded by rail lines anywhere in the world.

Lima locomotives are operating on railroads in nearly all the countries on the globe where such transportation is employed.

OUR INSPIRATION

BELL'S telephone invention resulted from his efforts to help, by mechanical means, the impaired hearing of Miss Hubbard, whom he later married. Her father financed the experiments and organized Bell's first telephone company. All this happened year ago, back in the '70s. It comes to light again with Mrs. Bell's passing into the hereafter.

Women—as wives, sweethearts, mothers and sisters—furnish the inspiration responsible for the majority of the achievements by men. Man is the motor; woman the electric current.

A manufacturer has made a purse 16 feet long, which is not as big as the one Dempsey wants for fighting.

Breakfasted heartily, on radishes and hen-fruit. Straight up in the skillet. So, out thru the snow and Byng town. Clair Tolan, the banker, entering the side door; Roy Dunn, the greates mercantile king, overseeing his magnificent windows. Charlie Gordon, the fashionable ladies' tailor, and modish millinery prince. Hove into Pete Columbus for a foot manicure.

Scorbutic Fever Carriers Would the eating of a yeast cake twice daily be beneficial to one's health?—O. H. M. Answer—It is sometimes good medicine, but I think it an expensive food.

How long after exposure to scarlet fever before one comes down with it? And how long after exposure if one takes the disease before one can give it to a third person?—Mrs. J. K. Answer—The incubation period (time intervening between exposure or infection and first symptoms of illness) varies from 24 hours to eight days, in most cases three or four days. One coming down with scarlet fever may spread the disease at any time in the illness before the rash is out. Probably the disease is most communicable in the stage of invasion before the patient takes to bed.

"My father!—Well, I guess if he Should find some giants kidnaped me,

He'd foller 'em right to their cave— My father's awful strong an' brave! An' when he caught 'em he'd yell 'Hey,

You let that boy go, right away! An' if they didn't—I tell you! My father'd break 'em plumb in two!

I guess he'd learn 'em to be good, That's how he'd do—my father would."

"Your father! Aw, he ain't so grand, My father'd huck him with one hand, And if some giants was around Why just the minute that they found My father lived here—tell you what, They'd run like fun until they got A million miles away! They'd be Afraid to THINK of touchin' me!"

And thus two ordinary men Of five foot six or eight or ten, A little soft and fat and gray, And commonplace in every way, Are by their children's honest pride Heroic figures, magnified, A man must be a perfect zero if to his kids he's not a hero.

Try This Way Combat the film on teeth

Every careful man or woman should learn what it means to fight film.

Dentists urge it. Millions of people have profited by it. All the world over are seen the results, such as you would gladly have. Ask for this 10-Day Tube.

Film is dingy

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The tooth brush used in old ways does not effectively combat it. So countless teeth are dimmed and ruined by it. Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It forms the basis of cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

New methods now

Dental science has in late years found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, without any harmful scouring. Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research, and

CAPTAIN BLOOD

BY RAFAEL SABATINI

BEGIN HERE TODAY

A Spanish warship successfully attacks the island of Barbados, upon which FREDERICK BLOOD and a number of other Englishmen have become slaves. COLONEL BISHOP, owner of the island, is the most tyrannical of the slave owners. Blood and his fellow slaves, thru strategy capture the Spanish ship and Bishop, who boards the vessel to learn the identity of the island's saviors, is compelled to leap overboard and swim to shore.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Nay, nephew, nay," Don Miguel protested with ironic repudiation. "I can have no knowledge of these things. Already you have told me more than it is good for me to know." But he winked into the twinkling eyes of Captain Blood; then added matter that at once extinguished that twinkle. "But since Diego cannot come to me, why, I will go across to him."

For a moment Don Esteban's face was a mask of pallid fear. Then Blood was speaking in a lowered, confidential voice that admirably blended suavity, impressiveness, and sly mockery.

"If you please, Don Miguel, but that is the very thing you must not do—the very thing Don Diego does not wish you to do. It was his consideration of himself and the false position in which you would be placed if you had direct word from him of what has happened. He paused a moment. Your excellency understands."

His excellency frowned thoughtfully. "I understand . . . in part," said he.

Captain Blood swept on to afford further confirmation before the admiral could say another word.

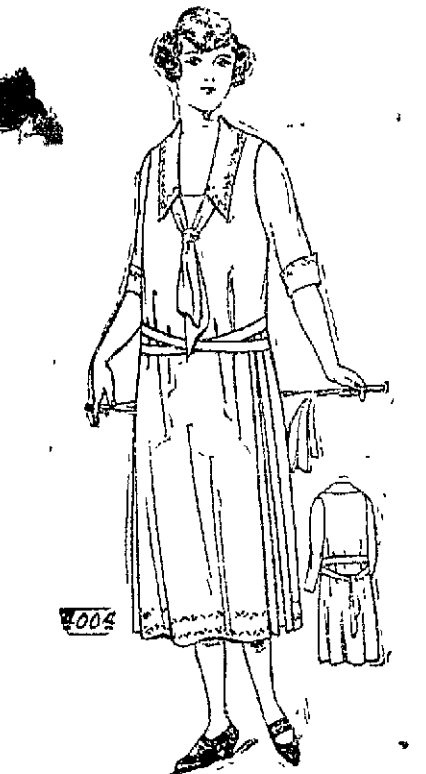

"And we have in the boat below two chests containing fifty thousand pieces of eight, which we are to deliver to your excellency."

His excellency jumped; there was a sudden stir among his officers.

"They are the ransom extracted by Don Diego from the Governor of . . ."

"Not another word, in the name of Heaven!" cried the admiral in alarm. "My brother wishes me to assume charge of this money, to carry it to Spain for him? Well, that is a fairly matter between my brother and myself. But I must not . . ."

know . . . He broke off. "Hum! A glass of Malaga in my cabin, if you please," he invited them, "whilst the chests are being hauled aboard."

They laughed, and drank the damnation of King James—quite unofficially, but the more fervently on that account. Then Don Esteban, uneasy on the score of his father, rose and announced that they must be returning.

As they stepped into the waist of the Cinco Ligas, Hagthorpe advanced to receive them. Blood observed the set, almost scared expression on his face.

"I see that you've found it," he said quietly.

Hagthorpe's eyes looked a question. But his mind dismissed whatever thought it held.

"Don Diego . . . he was beginning, and then stopped, and looked curiously at Blood.

"Nothing the matter and the look, Esteban bounded forward, his face livid.

"Have you broken faith, you curs? Has he come to harm?" he cried—and the six Spaniards behind him made chorus to his furious questioning.

"We do not break faith," said Hagthorpe firmly, so firmly that he quailed them. "And in this case there was not the need. Don Diego died in his hands before ever you reach the Encarnacion."

Peter Blood said nothing.

"Died?" screamed Esteban. "You killed him, you mean. Of what did he die?"

Hagthorpe looked at the boy. "If I am a judge," he said, "Don Diego died of fear."

Don Esteban struck Hagthorpe across the face at that, and Hagthorpe would have struck back, but that Blood got between, whilst his followers seized the lad.

"I was not concerned to insult," said Hagthorpe, nursing his cheek. "It is what happened. Come and look."

"I have seen," said Blood. "He died before I left the Cinco Ligas. He was hanging dead in his hands when I spoke to him before leaving."

Blood's counsel decided that, going east of Hispanola, and then sailing along the northern coast, they should make for Tortuga, that haven of the buccanniers, in which lawless port they had at least no fear of recapture to apprehend.

It was now a question whether they should convey the Spaniards thither with them, or turn them off in a boat to make the best of their way to the coast of Hispanola, which was but some miles off. This was the course urged by Blood himself.

"There's nothing else to be done," he insisted. "In Tortuga they would be flayed alive."

"Which is less than the swine deserve," growled Wolverstone.

"Oh, laugh! I've no stomach for cold-blooded killing," said Blood. "At daybreak pack the Spaniards into a boat with a keg of water and a sack of dumplings, and let them go to the devil!"

CHAPTER XXII

Tortuga

It was no part of the design of Blood to join hands with the buccanniers who, under a semi-official French protection, made of Tortuga a far whence they could sailly out to drive their prey of water and sack of dumplings, and let them go to the devil!

It was Blood's original intention to make his way to France or Holland. But in the long weeks of waiting for a ship to convey him to one or the other of these countries, his resources dwindled and finally vanished.

Temptations proceeded not only from the buccanniers, but from the great wealth of Tortuga, but even from M. d'Ogeron, the governor of the island, who levied as his harbor dues a percentage of one-tenth of all spoils brought into the bay.

Moreover, to a man, those who had escaped with Peter Blood from the Barbados plantations, and who knew not whither to turn, were all resolved upon joining the great Brotherhood of the Coast, as those rovers called themselves. And they united there to the other voices that were persuading Blood, demanding that he should continue now in the leadership which he had enjoyed since they had left Barbados, and swearing to follow him loyally whithersoever he should lead them.

The resolve being taken, he went actively to work. Ogeron advanced him money for the proper equipment of his ship the Cinco Ligas.

Which he renamed the Arabella.

To the score of followers he already possessed, he added three more. With them he entered into the articles usual among the Brethren of the Coast under which each man was to be paid by a share in the prizes captured.

Toward the end of December, when the hurricane season had blown itself out, he put to sea and before he returned in the following May from a protracted and adventurous cruise, the fame of Captain Peter Blood had run like ripples before the breeze across the face of the Caribbean Sea.

One day, as Captain Blood sat with Hagthorpe and Wolverstone over a pipe and a bottle of rum in the stifling reek of tar and stale tobacco at a waterside tavern, he was accosted by a splendid ruffian in a gold-lined coat of dark-blue satin with a crimson sash, a foot wide, about the waist.

"C'est vous qu'on appelle Le Sang?" the fellow hailed him.

"Captain Blood looked up to consider the question before replying. The man was tall and built on lines of agile strength, with a swarthy, aquiline face that was brutally handsome.

Captain Blood took the pipe-stem from between his lips. "Is Peter Blood," the Spaniards know me for Don Pedro Sangre, and a Frenchman may call me Le Sang if he pleases."

"Good," said the gaudy adventurer in English. "My name," he informed the three men, two of whom at least were eying him askance, "is Levasseur. You may have heard of me."

They had, indeed. He commanded a privateer of twenty guns that had dropped anchor in the bay a week ago. A roaring, quarrelsome, hard-drinking, hard-gaming, scoundrel, his reputation as a buccannier stood high among the wild Brethren of the Coast. There was about his gaudy, swaggering raffishness something that the women found singularly alluring.

It was current gossip that even Mademoiselle d'Ogeron, the Governor's daughter, had been caught in the snare of his wild attractiveness. This was the man who now thrust himself upon Captain Blood with a proposal of association, offering him not only his sword, but his ship and the men who sailed her.

Because he disliked the man, Captain Blood would not commit himself at once. But because he liked the proposal he consented to consider it. The end of the matter was that within a week articles were drawn up between Levasseur and Blood, and signed by them and—as was usual—by the chosen representatives of their followers.

All being now settled they made ready for sea, and on the very eve of sailing, Levasseur narrowly escaped being shot in a romantic attempt to scale the wall of the Governor's garden, with the object of taking passionate leave of the infatuated Mademoiselle d'Ogeron.

That night he slept on board his ship, which with characteristic flamboyance he had named La Foudre, and there on the following day he received a visit from Captain Blood, whom he greeted half-mockingly as his admiral. The Irishman came to settle certain final details of which all that need concern us is an understanding that, in the event of the two vessels becoming separated by accident or design, they should rejoin each other as soon as might be at Tortuga.

Thereafter Levasseur entertained his admiral to dinner, and jointly they drank success to the expedition. (Continued in Our Next Issue)

4,877 SCALES TESTED IN 1922 BY CITY SEALER

A total of 4,877 scales and measures were tested during 1922, annual report of J. W. Sherkey, sealer of weights and measures, shows. Of this number 335 were found to be defective and were condemned.

Of the 3,484 scales tested, 292 were defective and of 338 automatic pumps tested 42 were found to be incorrect. The greatest proportion of scales condemned were of the computing variety, 218 of a total of 318 being discarded, the report shows.

"WOMAN in the Elizabethan Age" was the subject of an extremely instructive and extraordinary address delivered by Mrs. Robert C. Morris, Toledo, at a joint meeting of the Lotus, Woman's, Delphian and Arbutus clubs Monday afternoon. Mrs. Morris is a great Shakespearean scholar and author of several books on the noted poet's works. She has lectured to Lima club women on various occasions, her talks being anticipated as among the most worth while events on the club programs.

The joint meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Mackenzie, W. Market-st., the members of the Arbutus club acting as hostesses. Receiving with Mrs. Mackenzie were Mrs. Phil M. Crow, Mrs. Samuel Huecker, Mrs. John E. Galvin, Mrs. Virgil Kulsely and Mrs. Fred Beam.

Mrs. Gibson P. Dilline, president of the Arbutus club presided and preceding Mrs. Morris' talk, Mrs. Clem S. Baxler sang a group of solos. Mrs. Harry Macdonald presided at the piano, playing the accompaniment.

Next joint meeting of the clubs will be held February 5th, at the home of Mrs. A. T. Macdonnell, W. Market-st., when the members of the Delphian club will entertain the other clubs. Mrs. Frances G. Richards, Miami University, will lecture on the subject, "The Woman of Victoria's Day."

Mrs. J. E. Dexter, W. Elm-st., opened her home to the members of the Clifton club Monday afternoon.

Members responded to roll call with current events, after which a parliamentary drill was conducted under the leadership of Mrs. L. P. Tolby.

Mrs. Fred Bisanz presented a well prepared scientific paper while "The Needs of Our City" was the subject of an interesting paper prepared by Mrs. J. A. Jenkins.

A general discussion on the subject, "What is Our City's Greatest Need?" followed, after which Mrs. Dexter favored with a piano solo.

A social hour was enjoyed at the close of the program and a dainty repast was served by the hostess.

Next meeting will be held in a fortnight with Mrs. C. Z. Kraft, W. High-st.

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Leona Howell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Howell, St. Mary's, and Robert Kelly, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelly, Hamilton, comes as a general surprise to the friends of the couple.

The marriage was solemnized in St. Mary's at the St. John's parsonage last Monday afternoon. Francis Malone, Toledo, officiated.

The bride is a graduate of the Marion Commercial School, the Auglaize Normal School as well as a graduate of St. Mary's high school. For two years she was engaged in teaching in the Bolken and Franklin schools. She was also connected with the service department of the Garford Motor Car Company in this city.

Mr. Kelly and his bride are now at home at 510 W. Spring-st.

Mrs. Irene Mills Jackson and Miss Alice M. Hill left Monday for Columbus, where they will attend a state meeting of Social Service Workers.

Mrs. Robert C. Morris, Toledo, who lectured at a joint meeting of the Lotus, Woman's, Delphian and Arbutus clubs Monday afternoon will attend the Ohio meeting of the Arbutus clubs in Springfield next Saturday.

Mrs. Wilbur Harris, N. Canal-st., will be hostess to the Delphos Tourists' club at her home Monday evening. Election of officers will take place, after which a short social hour will be enjoyed.

Misses Cecelia Holmkamp and Miss Cecelia Kiskorn, Delphos, were guests of friends in this city over Sunday.

Progressive Euchre club will meet with Mrs. J. W. Custerbolder, Faurot-av., Thursday.

Susie Smart's Advice

Dear Miss Smart: I AM a girl 17 years old. My mother has always doted on me and it seems that she does so much more as she grows old. She tells me from whom I shall not accept invitations as well as those with whom she does not care for me to feel that I am old enough to choose my own friends and to know from whom it is all right for me to accept attention. Don't you think it would be best if my mother would permit me some freedom?

A READER: I T IS wrong for you to assume such a disrespectful attitude toward your mother. I understand your point of view, but I feel that your mother has your welfare at heart. You are very young and that is probably the reason your mother thinks it wise to advise you in choosing your friends. She only wants to advise—not dictate.

When you are older, your mother will doubtless give you a great deal more freedom. Mothers usually have very good reasons when they disapprove of certain ones among their daughter's friends and acquaintances.

(1) Here is a recipe for fruit and nut cake, which sounds quite tempting. One cupful of butter, two cupfuls of sugar, four eggs, one and one half cupfuls of milk, five cupfuls of flour, one grated nutmeg, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, two cupfuls of chopped walnut meats, two cupfuls of seeded, halved raisins, two cupfuls of cleaned currants and one and one half teaspoonful of baking powder.

Cream the butter and sugar and then beat in the eggs one at a time. Mix together the flour, baking powder, spices, nuts and fruit, add a little of this to the first mixture and the remainder alternately with the milk. Bake an hour and a half in a slow oven. This makes two good-sized loaves, and if wrapped in paraffin paper and stored in a crock will keep for months.

Mrs. Ralph Kemmer, W. Market-st., delightfully entertained the members of the Nonotolis Bridge club and a group of guests at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Elks' Home, Monday.

The luncheon tables were prettily appointed in a color scheme of pink and white. Pink rosebuds graced the centers and pink candles held with tulle added an attractive note. Nut cups were dainty affairs in pink.

Following the luncheon, guests were invited to the lounge, where an afternoon of bridge was enjoyed. Guests other than the members of the club included Mrs. A. V. Basinger, Mrs. William J. Noonan, Mrs. Walter Rowlands, Mrs. Vernon Hosselmann, Mrs. William Renz, Mrs. W. L. Ayers, Mrs. F. P. O'Connor, Miss Helen Bower and Miss Olive Bogart.

LIMA THEATRES PLEASE WITH SPECIAL OFFERINGS

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

SUPER attractions of real merit opened to capacity crowds at all local theatres on Sunday. Both screen and stage attractions appearing at playhouses hold more than a modicum of merit, and your attention is called to the city's program, as a whole, for the entire week to come.

What's Wrong With Keith Bill Today? Nothing!!

HAVING been accused more than once of falsely rating entertainments for you, either way, I beg to assure you all-knowing theatre-goers with metropolitan ideas, that Mr. Faurot Opera House's bill the first of this week is one of the best you will find anywhere! (And if you don't like it, you're a hard customer and do not deserve Keith at all.)

With that little sentence of her mind, she proceeds to elongate on the why and whereof of said program. First appears Mr. Jack Lipton, "the musical salesman," a clever vocalist who imitates a sax, guitar, harp, banjo and several other instruments with his voice alone. Something new, and easy to take.

Larry Ward and Michael King, two effective young men with rapid-fire attack of peppy dialogue, song and dance numbers, not to mention a whistling solo, have their audience with them from the start.

One of the biggest features of the entire five is the offering of "The Four of Us," a male quartette composed of four personable, talented young men, whose selections comprise the newest of popular numbers, lullabies, etc. At the opening on Sunday, they were recalled again and again, and no wonder.

Hamlin and Mack have a charmingly staged novelty which they call "Two Records." Nothing hackneyed or old about this bit—all new and refreshing. Both these young people have good voices and dance well, thank you.

Passing on to the headline attraction, the offering of Paisley Noon and company. Mr. Noon is famous for his dancing and character songs, another young man presides splendidly at the piano, while Kay and Cecil, two pretty girl step-dancers, favor with fantastically dressed and executed dance selections. Mr. Noon's "Lovin' Sam," is rendered with all the style and pep of a Patricola, and his dance steps are marvelous. Altogether a perfect conception of a "headline" act. Attaway, Mr. Clark!

Introducing a Canine Hero Who Can Act

MOST women and all men, I am sure, will be captivated by "Strongheart," the canine hero of "The Silent Call." And they will find in this breezy, interesting outdoor story a refreshing change from the usual run of photoplays.

Hal G. Davis, who writes intelligently of animals and men, wrote the story from which the picture was adapted. Strongheart, a Belgian police dog, is cast as Flash, half wolf, half plain dog, and in the picture he becomes master of the destinies of a number of persons, among them his adored master and the girl the master loves.

Long hunted cattle rustlers are located, all thru the ingenuity of this noble dog, and the villain of the story comes to a most deserving end thru the same source. And judging by the dog's ferocious attack, you are easily convinced that

"When Knighthood Was In Flower" Rare Offering

GLOWINGLY transferred to the silver sheet with all the beauty and intensity that money and talent can provide, "When Knighthood Was In Flower" takes its place as the most pretentious and worthy offering the Quilna has given us for many a moon.

This beloved old romance of the princess who loved a lowly knight, adheres closely to the story you read so breathlessly when a kiddie and the fascinating personage of a tale step forth and go their deeds of valor, love or villainy garbed in picturesque costumes of that period.

Besides its worth as an old-world romance, the picture is a truly gorgeous spectacle. Sets, jewels, costumes, furnishings, bric-a-brac, armor, etc., all have an authenticity and old-world charm. I could regale you at length on various historical information on many of the pretties you see therein, but space will not permit.

Surely you haven't forgotten the story—how little Mary Tudor, sister of Henry VIII, destined by that old scallawag to marry for his glory alone, meets and loves Charles Brandon, a knight. The king is determined that his little sister shall wed the dearest old king of France. Mary is equally determined she shall not. At last, however, the day arrives when Mary becomes wife in name only to Louis VIII, who obliquely in a few brief months passes on to his reward. And Charles Brandon still lives, which last furnishes abundant material for a satisfying spectacular finish to the picture.

Lyn Harding, the English actor who plays Henry VIII, a role he has essayed over 200 times, is a wonder. You have never seen a more kindly king. His every move, every expression bespeaks his extraordinary talent as an actor.

Mary Davies as Mary Tudor, is a joy to look at and a real little actress. Her impersonation of Mary Tudor marks her as a cinema beauty of ability and in the royal robes of the period, she is indeed lovely.

Forrest Stanley, more or less well known to fans, gives a splendid portrayal of the knight, and other roles, too numerous to mention, are just as well-taken. Director.

Here's Question—"What's Wrong With Women?"

WHAT WRONG WITH THE WOMEN? HERE'S a timeliness and momentous lesson in "What's Wrong With Women" that makes itself felt, no matter how much you may dislike being preached at (if you're a woman) or being told something you think you know everything about (if you're a man). Either one, you'll watch with suspense the little drama enacted in this picture, and maybe derive great benefit therefrom.

What IS wrong with the women today? Are they forgetting that home and children are the real destinies of a woman's life, or are they the mad, pleasure-seeking, excitement-eaters that the author makes them to be? Is the world turning topsy-turvy, or are the fundamentals of womanhood the same as always? I'd be getting into deep water if I tried to tell you what I think is wrong with 'em, so we'll let it rest at that, and see if you can work out the solution.

Really, tho, the story is a bit hectic. A struggling young man and his charming wife and child, live happy, busy and ordinary lives, until an unscrupulous and unprincipled woman introduces to little Mrs. Lee something of the outside world and her strange life. The wife, of course, leaves home, child and husband and ventures upon a mad round of social pleasures. The husband is nearly ruined. Another parasite, spurning the love of a good man, and seeking only for money, goes from bad to worse. It is only thru the illness of the little child that husband and wife are reunited and find happiness in each other. "Twice over thus!"

Barbara Castleton, Rod La Roque, Baby Helen Rowland, Constance Bennett and a host of others portray leading characters. With a few exceptions, they fit their roles nicely, and do their part to make the story "get over."

"What's Wrong With Women?" Suppose you ask us to the Lyric, as Harold Teen would say.

and see what's what? AND, incidentally, what is really wrong with the ladies, God bless 'em!

Bert Smith and His Ragtime Wonders Return

NO need to dwell at length on the entertainment qualities of Bert Smith and His Ragtime Wonders, appearing this week at the New Orpheum. They have been here before, and at that time ably demonstrated that as far as talent was concerned, they had ample to satisfy the needs of all New Orpheum patrons. Also, that is why they're here again.

Sue Hale, Vi Shaffer and all the favorites with the company have a brand new repertoire of vocal selections and dance steps, and without exception, pleased all comers at the four performances of Sunday. Comedy runs rampant thruout their offering, starting with the rise of the curtain and never lessening until the final drop.

The company will remain here during the entire week, presenting a new bill on Thursday matinee. Also, Manager Shaw promises a surprise of some sort at the performance on Friday evening.

We shall wait and see.

"The Silent Call," now showing, with Strongheart, the wonder dog, is a winner especially for boys and lovers of man's most faithful friends.

"The Cup of Life," coming Thursday, with Madge Bellamy, Hobart Bosworth and Tully Marshall, is a romance and adventure east of Singapore. A thrilling story of pearl smugglers of Old Singapore.

BILL TILDEN RANKS FIRST AMONG TENNIS STARS

MAY LOSE TITLE

NEW YORK — Lacking most of the middle finger on his playing hand, amputated recently, William T. Tilden is ranked first in the National Men's Singles list issued by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, perhaps the last time he will hold that honor. These rankings issued today are based on the players' performances last year. There was no doubt of course that Tilden earned the place again, for he not only defeated all worthy American contenders, but also turned back Gerald Patterson, the Wimbledon world champion. But Tilden himself has candidly raised the question whether under his new physical handicap he will be able to rank anywhere among the first ten after the season of 1923.

Little Bill Johnston, who comes second in the national list, is regarded as the man most likely to conquer Tilden now that Big Bill's hand has been maimed. But tennis fans believe Big Bill is not doing himself justice when he foresees a marked decline.

In fact, Tilden said, the only strokes of his repertoire which would be affected were the fine, delicate touches which have been but the embellishment of an almost perfect natural playing form. His strength he does not expect to be impaired and it was the terrific force of Tilden's drive and his general endurance which was mostly responsible for his ascendancy.

TILDE BILL MAY WIN
Tilden, when whole, was far superior to all others except Johnston, whom he topped by only a slight, but nevertheless a clearly perceptible margin. A slight degree of decline in his game therefore might place him second to Little Bill after next year's tournaments are played, but many tennis devotees have confidence that he will still outtop Vincent Richards, now ranked third for the second consecutive year.

This year's ranking brings four new names into the celebrated list of the first ten. They are Robert Kinsey at No. 1, replacing R. N. Williams, who moves to No. 4; Zenz Shimizu, the Japanese Davis Cup star, at No. 2, replacing his countryman Ichihya Kumagata, who is not ranked this year; Howard Kinsey, a brother of Robert, at No. 3, replacing Howard Voshell, who drops to No. 16; and Francis T. Hunter at No. 4, replacing Lawrence B. Rice, who becomes No. 11. Wallace F. Brown, who was No. 4 in 1922, is the fifth in place, and Watson Washburn, who was No. 10, is the sixth. Tilden and Richards again are No. 7 in the men's doubles and the Kinsey Brothers second. Washburn and Williams are three and Walter Westbrook and John Hennessey are fourth.

THE FAIR PLAYERS

There was no possible question, but that Mrs. Mollie Mallory would get first place in the national ranking of women, as she cleaned up without even being extended in most of the tournaments except the one at Wimbledon, in which Mollie Tilden took her revenge. The Wimbledon tournament naturally does not count in the American national ranking, however. Miss Leslie Bancroft of Massachusetts is second, vice Miss Mary K. Browne of Los Angeles, who slumped most of the season's competitions. Miss Helen Willis, the little California girl who wore her hair in pig-tails the year before, was rated No. 3 this time out of respect for her splendid playing in the big tournaments and her victory over Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, who is ranked fifth this time, a drop from fourth. Mrs. Bundy's presence anywhere in the first ten is a great tribute to her game, as she was the champion 18 years ago and renewed her participation in the big tournaments only a year ago. The advancement of Miss Willis to No. 2 dropped Mrs. Marion Jessup to fourth. Miss Willis, Miss Martha Bayard, Miss Mollie Thayer, Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Florence Ballin are newcomers to the women's first ten. Those who dropped below were Miss Browne, Miss Margaret Grove, Mrs. Edward Raymond, Mrs. H. E. Cole and Miss Eleanor Goss.

ANNUAL BANK MEETINGS TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Annual stockholders' meetings of six Lima banks will be held during the coming week. Stockholders of the Old National bank and the First National bank will meet Tuesday afternoon, those of the Lima Dime Savings bank, Metropolitan bank and the American Bank and Trust Co. Wednesday and those of the Lima Trust Co. Thursday afternoon.

HARDIN-CO OFFICERS ARRAIGNED IN REPORT

Arraignments of Morton Ansey and Grant Geiger, Hardin-co commissioners, and Adam Height, former commissioner, is contained in a report just made public by state examiner E. C. Galleher. They are charged with neglecting their duty. A finding of $5,500 against T. R. Losky, contractor, for overpayment on a road contract was also made.

LEXINGTON—Stockholders set October 1 to 15 inclusive as the dates for the grand circuit meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders Association. Entries will close April 1 for the $21,000 Kentucky Futurity.

CINCINNATI—August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati Nationals, announced he had purchased Joe Reitenberg, shortstop of the Lexington Blue Grass League club.

COLLEGIATE WRESTLING NEEDS SET OF UNIFORM RULES

BY PAUL FREED
Coach of University of Illinois Wrestling Team and Contender for Middleweight Wrestling Championship of World.

The crying need of college wrestling today is a codification of the rules. At present we have the rules of the National A. A. U., the Central A. A. U., the Western Intercollegiate, and the Pacific A. A. U. These codes differ in such respects as the length of time of bouts, holds allowed, and the system of scoring points.

This makes for difficulty when officials who have worked under one system are called upon to officiate in another section of the country. At the same time it is a disadvantage for any meet in which men trained in one section would be obliged to meet wrestlers from another. Representatives from the various associations should meet and agree upon a uniform code just as is done in football.

To date college wrestling has not been financially profitable to athletic associations. But this is also true of practically all other minor sports. The rapid growth of college wrestling is shown by the increase in the number of students who are taking it up. Three years ago the University of Illinois had a very small class of men who were interested enough to turn out for the team and wrestling classes. One small mat in a corner of the gymnasium sufficed.

Each year the number increased until it was necessary to add assistant coaches to handle the overflowing classes. We were lucky to have these coaches available in the four-year course in athletic coaching—students who had taken wrestling and were able to instruct. Last fall more than 500 men enrolled. Although this enrollment is larger than is ordinarily the case in most universities, there has been a national increase in interest in wrestling and many universities, colleges and country high schools are adding wrestling to their athletic program.

Wrestling, as taught in the various schools, is not for the purpose of developing professionals. It is to show the average athlete inclined young man the value to be gained from the proper coordination of mind and muscle. There is no sport superior to wrestling for demonstrating this.

STADIUM COSTING $500,000 TO BE BUILT FOR NET TOURNEYS

NEW YORK — Tennis has grown to such a degree of popularity in this country that the United States Lawn Tennis Association is planning to finance the erection of a $500,000 stadium at Forest Hills, N. Y.

The need of more room was shown last year at the Davis Cup challenge round and that the men's singles championship in Philadelphia.

While it is praiseworthy to have in this country something to compare with the great stadium at Wimbledon England, perhaps it is not just to other sections of the country to select Forest Hills as the site.

It is true that no other section of the country could support such a project but it is true also that other sections of the country are entitled to see some of the classics and if a half million dollars are invested in the Forest Hill project, all the classics will go there.

Competition is practically all of the men's classes are great drawing cards, but interest in the women players has slumped. If attendance can be taken as an indication.

The women's championships at Forest Hills last year drew hardly a handful. The fact of interest was due perhaps to the justified feeling that there would be nothing to the tournament but Mrs. Mollie Mallory, the champion, as one said:

"Everyone has seen Mrs. Mallory play." To stimulate interest in the women players some foreign talent will have to be imported. It is understood that the committee will invite Miss Kathleen McKane, the British girl star, to compete.

Miss Suzanne Lenglen, the world's champion, may also be an entry. Her excuse last year was that she would never visit the United States as long as Julian S. Nyeck headed the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Nyeck is retiring now, so she may change her mind. The French star may have another reason for coming back to vindicate herself.

Mrs. Mallory, to continue the feud between them, is going back to Europe again next summer and she may wind up in the British championships again with Suzanne. If Suzanne should happen to beat her again, she would have more inducement to come over and do it again in front of the American fans.

What will happen to Bill Tilden when he goes to play with a stump of a finger on his racket hand, or, of course, is the biggest thing in the coming season.

Tilden, apparently, is not so optimistic about his chances when he says he feels that he may not finish within the first ten next season he is following his usual tendency not to be boastful or vain about his ability. If Tilden should happen to be seriously handicapped by the loss of his finger, slumping interest in the Davis Cup matches may be boosted.

LEAGUE IS STARTED

The first match completed in the K. of C. mixed league has brought out one important fact. The final results in the tournament will be decided by the scores of the feminine bowlers.

In the match already completed, Joe Goodrich made an average of 138 and H. Lewis averaged 173 for the two games. Their teams, however, lost the three-game match by 76 pins.

Starting Thursday night, the K. of C. alleys will be reserved for the mixed league and all matches will be rolled on that night.

EVERS PICKED INDIANS

Funny, how even the wise guys of baseball go wrong.

At the start of the 1922 campaign in the American League, Johnny Evers made his debut in that organization. His previous major league experience had been confined to the National.

After he had seen all the American League teams in action, he was asked his opinion of the various teams.

"Cleveland plays the most baseball," New York has the brute strength, St. Louis plays a consistent game, Detroit is dangerous. "Because I always favor teams that play smart baseball, I like Cleveland. If brute strength is to win, I doubt it, the Yankees will repeat."

Surgical Operation Restores Use Of Arm To Fighter

NEW YORK—"Just as good as ever," says Jack Zivic, as he proudly displays a knife-scathed arm and shoulder to his friends.

Zivic is the youngest fighter, several months ago, faced the end of his hoped-for ring career, on account of a right arm which refused to stay in the shoulder socket.

He had fought his way thru the amateur ranks until he was crowned featherweight champion at the last Olympic games.

Turning pro, he was well along on his hard climb toward his ambition to a bout for the lightweight title, when he dislocated his right shoulder in a match at Annapolis. Fighting again before the injury was entirely healed, he again threw it out of place.

HIS GAMENESS REWARDED

Apparently Jack was done. Doctors gave him no encouragement until finally Doctor Froelich suggested an operation, never before tried, might restore the arm to its usefulness.

Zivic was game. He passed long pain-filled weeks in a hospital, while the arm slowly healed. Followed dreary weeks of restoring wasted muscles.

Then more weeks of hard work in a gymnasium to regain the speed, the nicely of judgment, the timing of blows, the physical perfection that a boxer must have when he meets an opponent in the ring.

Then came the acid test. Would the arm stand the strain of battle? Jack elected to make his tryout before his home folks. He was matched with Dick Do Sanders at Pittsburgh.

STOOD THE ACID TEST

For five rounds he toyed with Dick. He displayed all the speed that he showed before his operation, and the shower of licks and rights, hooks and jabs that he sent home on the face of the son of a gun. Jack was happy. His arm had stood the test.

"She's just as good as ever," and Zivic is once more started on the way to his long-sought goal, the winning of the lightweight title.

1922 Failed To Furnish Many Big Boxing Exhibitions

BY HENRY L. PARRELL
NEW YORK—In furnishing a big ring spectacle, the year 1922 failed in its duty. While there was nothing to forestall the world like another Dempsey-Carpentier affair, there was enough doing of domestic importance to make it go down as an interesting and successful year.

Jack Dempsey was idle for the entire year, not that he was not willing, perhaps but because the one available "million dollar" opponent was Harry Wills and the hands that direct boxing around the big money centers considered this year, with elections and other things, as an inappropriate time to cause any racial discussion with a mixed bout for the title.

Dempsey's rather cool reception of the suggestions for a bout with Wills was interpreted in some circles as a fear of the colored man but it is a fact that Dempsey was not that he could not fight Wills this year and that the bout could be staged next year in New York.

Dempsey also is a good enough business man to know that it would help to steam up the bout if he allowed the impression to prevail that he was afraid of Wills.

While Dempsey was rather out of the spotlight, his friend, Georges Carpentier stepped into plenty of the calcium. Georges lost three of his titles when Batlin, Sikki tapped him on the jaw and knocked him out, there, becoming European heavy-weight and world's light-heavyweight champion and the French heavy-weight champion.

Sikki's glory was short lived. The adulteration of the French people spoiled him and he became such a nuisance to the Parisians that he was suspended for nine months and his titles were taken away from him.

Removing of title by legislation is a novelty in pugilism and altho he may not be considered a three-way champion in France, he will be looked upon as such by the ordinary fan until he is bumped on the chin.

The same assumption of the superiority of the pen over the fist on the part of the New York Boxing Commission was one of the features of the year.

Because Johnny Kilbane and Johnny Wilson refused to defend their

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

When batters are in a slump they seek every possible means to kill off the so-called jinx that is pursuing them.

Some batters worry terribly when they slump in hitting. Others get mighty peevish. A few take the situation good-naturedly, accepting it as a part of the game, knowing that in the end the breaks are about fifty-fifty.

Eddie Collins is one of those chaps who figure there is a reason for everything. When Collins slumps, he accepts his temporary failure to his as part of the game. He goes about his work in his usual business-like manner. As a rule, failure to hit causes most players to slump in all departments of the game, but not Collins.

Several years ago Collins was in a batting slump that befitted a player every so often. He seemed to be hitting the ball pretty well, but couldn't get it safe. Always, it seemed, the drive would go directly into the hands of some waiting fielder.

Instead of getting discouraged, Collins accepted the break with a smile, kept on trying to get back into his stride.

With two down in the ninth inning of the game I have in mind, Collins came to the bat with the Sox a run behind. As he walked past me on his way to the plate he remarked:

"Well, I have tried every bat in the bag and haven't been able to hit for a week, so I am now going to use this light fango stick."

He hit the first ball pitched into the right-field bleachers at Chicago. The fact that Collins is anything but a home-run hitter made the feat all the more unusual. The Sox won out in extra innings. That season, Collins made only two home runs. That apparently broke the slump. The next day Collins got three hits.

and kept on getting them the rest of the season.

It certainly was a most extraordinary manner in which to kill off the jinx, as slumps are known in baseball.

BASKET BALL QUIZ

WRONG BASKET
If a player loses his sense of direction and enters the ball in his opponent's basket, does it count for the player?

It certainly does. That is the penalty for pulling such a bonehead play, which by the way comes up several times every year.

TOSS-UP

When the referee tosses the ball up for the centers, is it necessary that both players jump and make an effort to touch the ball to make the play legal?

It is not, but if the ball is tapped by some player other than the jumpers, the referee should toss it up again and order both players to jump and make a real attempt to tap the ball. Failure to comply with the order can be construed by the referee as a foul on one or both for delaying the game.

FOOT POSITION

What must be the position of the feet when jumping for center or elsewhere for the ball? Often players will feet as the ball is about to be tossed and so position themselves that they interfere with their opponent. In some cases they actually step on their opponent's feet as a handicap. Is this legal?

The feet of the jumper must be within his half of the circle. Such action described is not to be permitted. No player would be able to get away with it very long with a wide-awake referee.

MAJOR LAWLER, ASSISTANT OHIO ADJUTANT GENERAL, IS FORMER LIMA RESIDENT

Major Edward Lawler, next assistant adjutant general of Ohio, is a former Lima man. He was reared in this city, the son of John Lawler, at one time custodian at the Allen county courthouse. He attended school here and is well remembered by many Lima people.

Altho having been absent from this city for nearly 20 years, Major Lawler frequently visits his former home city. He will be assistant to Adjutant General MacDonald, appointed by Governor-elect Donaher.

Lawler has been connected with military affairs of the state for some years and served overseas. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Columbus—Bud Christiano, Chicago lightweight, and Jimmy Murs of Columbus are scheduled to box 12 rounds here tonight.

WINSOR SEEKS BIG RACES

TOLEDO — Windsor, Ontario, would accept the last week of June as its date in the Grand Circuit provided that city is awarded a berth in the circuit. It was announced today as the circuit stewards convened in annual meeting.

The date was asked for by Thomas E. Newton and J. S. Hagerly of Detroit. Poughkeepsie and Roadville will remain in the circuit in the opinion of Win Kinman of Cleveland Grand Circuit secretary, he said today.

Philadelphia, it was said, probably will not apply for a date when the schedule is made up, according to horsemen. An application is expected from Goshen, N. Y., it was declared.

The meeting of the schedule and rules committee will be held this afternoon.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

The football coaches of the country seem pretty well satisfied with the gridiron game, and well they should be.

Last year football enjoyed its greatest season. Capacity crowds viewed every big game scheduled. The public, by its attendance, showed its approval of the game as played.

At the recent meeting of the leading football coaches in New York, not one drastic change was made in the playing rules. Some decided reforms were suggested, but all of them were quickly voted down. The coaches showed much wisdom in deciding not to tinker with the rules in any way.

No games in football or any other sport are far from satisfactory. Buck O'Neil, who coaches at Columbia last year, suggested that in case of a tie game, the team making the most first down should be regarded as the victor. The advantage in downs should be the deciding factor in all tie games. Nothing doing, said the coaches.

Coach Heisman of Pennsylvania's offered a most ingenious suggestion as a means of eliminating the games in football. It was his plan to allow both teams to have the ball on the offensive for three downs from mid-field after the finish of the game. Teams were to be allowed to pass, kick or run. The team advancing the ball furthest in the three tries should be given the extra point, and consequently the game.

While the coaches listened with much attention to the unusual suggestion of the Pennsylvania mentor, it failed to receive the slightest encouragement from any of them.

EUROPE EXPECTS U. S. TO AID

Not Alarmed Over Breakup of Paris Conference

SEE QUICK AMERICAN ACTION

Reparations Situation is Commented Upon by Forbes

(BY E. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK (Special).—Would I be hung, drawn and quartered were I to venture the suggestion that there is probably more chattering than consternation in Europe over the spectacular bursting up of the Paris conference?

Has it not occurred to you that the European interested parties figured that such developments would be calculated to do more than anything else to prod America into hastening to the rescue?

Another idea I have that France will think not twice, but three before giving Marshal Foch orders to march troops into fresh German territory.

Even so, it is difficult for one to believe that German statesmen and capitalistic giants have been playing the game straightforwardly.

Frederick M. Halsey, a staunch American who for some years has been the London representative of the National City Company of New York and whose duties take him in to most European countries, told me at lunch in New York the other day.

"Your newspapers here don't give any adequate idea of the progress made by Europe towards sound conditions. You are treated mostly to political sensations. You are told very little about the improvement in labor and living conditions in France, Belgium, Holland and other countries, or about the industrial activity in Germany. Things are not nearly as bad as you here are led to believe."

Mr. Halsey did add that the trend in Germany was distinctly disquieting, especially as the working classes are feeling the pinch of the collapse of the mark more and more as the volume of paper currency multiplies alarmingly.

Young John D. Rockefeller, who is the reverse of a snob—you may recall his session with Mother Jones, the revolutionary labor agitator—has had many interesting experiences thru his democratic habit of mingling unostentatiously among all classes. Here is one incident which rather tickled Mr. Rockefeller:

During the war, Mr. Rockefeller was often called upon to speak to the soldiers at the training camps. It was his custom at the end of each meeting to ask any men who cared to do so to remain and shake hands with him, that he might have a personal word with them. One night he stood in the midst of a group of stalwart, khaki clad boys, the following little drama was being enacted as the Secretary in charge later told him:

An Italian in uniform came to the secretary and asked "Which is Rockefeller?"

The secretary replied, "That is Mr. Rockefeller, in the middle of the group down there on the floor."

The Italian worked slowly around the sides of the room, peering into the crowd, looking and listening.

Returning to the secretary, he said, "Now, quit your kidding! Tell me, which is Rockefeller? That's no devil; that's a man."

We easterners rarely think of broadening our information and education by going west. Westerners, on the other hand, make a point of coming east.

This week I ran into Paul Shoup, President of the Pacific Oil Co., whose headquarters in California I heard so much about Mr. Shoup during my travels in the west that I deduced into his career.

I discovered that he was born of humble parents, went to work at a very early age, but did not take long to make an impression upon his superiors in the railway business. The result was that he was entrusted with responsibilities while still very young. Upon no more than one occasion he didn't hesitate, when it was impossible to obtain instruction, to make important decisions on his own.

This willingness to shoulder responsibility combined with repeated proof that he had extremely sound judgment in solving unusual problems, appealed to those higher up, and it wasn't long before they made Paul one of them. He finally rose to be one of the leading executives of the Southern Pacific railway.

Now he is president of this Southern Pacific Company's vast oil properties and other interests and is regarded as one of the ablest statesmen on the Pacific Coast. As he is still young, even bigger things may be expected of him.

Perhaps it might interest you to know that he is inordinately modest and unassuming. He doesn't get his results by bluster or swinging the big stick. He works as quiet as a Rolls Royce. Ambitious young Americans might like to know that Mr. Shoup has never touched liquor and has never indulged in smoking.

I never ask any financier "tips" on securities. One of the leading bankers in California however, impressed upon me very earnestly that the possibilities of the Southern Pacific Company are such that he has laid aside some of the stock for his children.

In all probability you never heard of Henry A. C. Taylor.

An account of the estate left by him reveals that he was worth fully $36,000,000. That's a respectable sum even in these days of big fortunes.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Gurney Lautzenheiser, 802 Brice-ay, was tired after attending a lodge meeting which lasted until a late hour one night and when morning came he kept right on sleeping, with the dim and mistaken idea that it was Sunday.

Hammering by carpenters next door finally convinced him that it was a work day, but not soon enough to get him to work much before time to quit for lunch.

All efforts to prevent the telling of a joke at the expense of St. Darling, general clerk at the general delivery window at the postoffice, by his fellow employees, failed.

Recently a young woman presented St. Darling with a photograph in recognition of his kindness and affability when she calls for her mail.

"Thanks, very kindly," St. Darling replied. "I'll take it home and place it in my Bible."

"No, don't," she protested innocently. "Put it some place where you will see it occasionally."

Raymond R. Horn, Market-st. druggist, sold a bottle of medicine to a woman whose little son was afflicted with whooping cough. Later she told Horn that while she was washing dishes she saw the young hopeful go out to the chicken coop with the bottle of medicine in his hand.

He was going to give one of the hens some of the medicine, until he was told it wasn't coughing, but instead of cackling. That made him cry.

"I thought," he said, "the chickens would help me use up the nasty stuff."

G. O. P. Four-Flushing in Repeal of State Tax Levy.

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU.

Columbus, Jan. 8.

COLUMBUS. — (Special).—Ohio begins on this day — January 8 by the calendar and S. Jackson's Day by other measurements — the unique experiment that it decided upon last November. A Democratic Governor, A. V. Donahue, who always will be "Vic" to hundreds of thousands of his fellow Ohioans; a Democratic Lieutenant Governor, Earl D. Bloom of Bowling Green; a Republican Attorney General, Charles C. Crabbe of London; a Republican Secretary of State, Thad H. Brown of Columbus; and a Republican Treasurer of State, Harry S. Day of Fremont, took the oath of office in the open air on the west steps of the Capitol of Ohio in the presence of a Supreme Court divided midway between progressives and reactionaries — the nominally Republican — and the presence of an overwhelming Republican General Assembly.

What purpose does the unusual combination represent? There was a purpose in the minds of the voters, perhaps, and if there was not, one will be assumed just like the courts skip over dubious phrases in the statutes by creating a "legislative intent" into which can be read anything and everything that the court desires. The same voters chose all of the officials and it always is assumed that some sort of mandate was issued. In the interpretation of it will come the troubles.

Of course, there are abundant promises of cooperation and co-ordination of activities and one who listened to the pious expressions on New Year's Day at the very opening of the session of the Eighty-fifth General Assembly might have been deluded into the notion that Buckeye "statesmen" or just ordinary legislative members had begun to sprout wings and were getting ready for transformation into angels. And yet the big question remains as to the mandate they have received as they look over the motley political assortment and endeavor to ascertain the meaning of it all. To them comes the question, which has absorbed the thought of many, "How redest thou?" Was the election a call for the shelving of old party organizations and a mandate for bipartisan projects or were the electors in a mere state of disgust and determined to make their government more grotesque than it has been and adopted the most effective means of doing so? The formal ceremony of inauguration cannot impress the question.

As the transfer of authority is made there will be, quite naturally, many pious expressions that peace and harmony may rest over the state official household, but the very prayers reveal the strong doubt felt upon the matter. And, indeed, the first week's development point out pretty conclusively that if Governor-elect Donahue is as good at diplomacy as are the legislative chambers, majority and minority included, the war ought not to be fifteen minutes late in starting and ought to rage with a violence never before excited; the more bitter because of the very lack of difference of declared purpose. For ostensibly, all are working to the same end — economy and efficient administration, fewer and better laws, governmental peace and freedom from strife and turmoil and an opportunity for the state to recover from the depths into which world conflict and failure to find world readjustment has plunged it. But friends and foes alike have confidence in Donahue. He has come thru on his patronage difficulties as well as any man might come and he has composed situations without making dangerous surrenders and has upheld the dignity of the place and made selections whose merits are conceded on all sides. No serious fault has been found with his statement. His legislative message has generally received the praise of party leaders and of disinterested supporters as a comprehensive document of purpose and verity.

On the other hand, it is far too early to judge of the General Assembly. The independent thought of the voters is showing itself quite clearly and the parties herded themselves at the very first opportunity to show pique and resentment, the general rebuke that has come from all sides may be appreciated. Or again, the divisions may cut deeper than the more naive designations, just as they did in the preceding body which ended so ignominiously on last Saturday when the Governor, even Harry L. Davis, was compelled to send the members home spanked and humiliated as a political menace to the state. From the real divisions that exist between men as to measures, as to come home rather than from the nominal party or partisan divisions. There is an independent nucleus on which a Governor properly can build if but he has the skill to find certain foundations and to build wisely. The popular hope appears to be in Governor-elect Donahue and he can lose that advantage only by playing his cards badly.

General interpretation of the early modest state tax reduction, which was 65 hundredths of a mill out of a total state tax levy of 4.15 mills, was that it was a victory for Donahue. His formula seems to have been adopted. As a matter of fact, the real defeat was for the designing interests which succeeded in stampeding the previous General Assembly into enactment of special levies and Governor Davis into signing them. In the background of these exploits of 1921 were a host of persons with plans to get money out of the pockets of the taxpayers into their own. The state educational levy and the state institutional levy were imposed with regard to the needs of the institutions and without regard to the condition of the state treasury. Cities and counties were robbed to build up a state treasury surplus and its accumulation to the extent of $19,500,000 was hailed as a monumental achievement in finance. And then, as if to give mockery to the whole business, the General Assembly hurriedly repeals its own work and makes a show of taxation economy in a week, although the repeal cannot actually take effect until next September. And here the Democratic minority came in for its share of criticism since it is shown by the record that it never submitted these facts to what Thomas Jefferson called a "cautious world," but permitted itself to fall into a scolding attitude. The very action taken was recommended by Governor-elect Donahue during the campaign and so often and so earnestly that in the hour of partial triumph of his principles the minority could not see it.

The remaining tax levy imposes the most difficult problem. The relief given is in terms of fractional mills but real whole, live mills remain as the property owners' burden, a standing encouragement to jockey of tax levies to keep the people of each community from knowing where the responsibility for high tax rates lies. The officials of the communities point to the statutory designation of tax imposts as state matters and state officials claim they are local levies retained in the counties and between the two the people only know that they pay, pay and pay. In this welter of confusion new tax laws are to be enacted, creating yet more complications and tending more and more to conceal the processes by which the dollar gets out of the taxpayers' pockets into the pockets of various persons who are behind the scenes manipulating the machinery. From it there is no prospect of simplicity or direct accounting. And the same sort of jugglery will keep the state from reaching with taxation the hidden wealth which has dodged and will continue to dodge thru the maze of laws.

Unless the first week's offering of bills is merely the backwash and the real proposals are to come after the executive recommendations have been heard, the Ohio General Assembly appears to have little to do. There are a total of 11 bills and three constitutional amendments, the Ku Klux Klan, one to an attack on churches, two to notaries public and court stenographers, one to Summit-co water power and three to taxation. Aside from the main bill, already enacted, the tax measures are the product of Gus Kaech of Akron and represented his ideas alone. His colleague, A. Ross Read, Akron's grand old man, as usual, is moved by his impulses to ask repeal for capital punishment and also would repeal the lobbyist's registration law. The reason for the first step is personal and the real reasons of the second relate to the failure of the past two General Assemblies to enforce the existing statutes. There are reports that the majority will "jump all the chance" to enact the second bill because the sponsorship by a Democrat furnishes the excuse for getting rid of a piece of legislation that has always been odious to certain legislative influences. Where there is no actual corruption, but only the ground work, the present law furnishes the means of purification, but even that is not desired in certain quarters. And yet, even the warmest advocates of lobbyist control do not question Mr. Read's motives, which are recognized as of the loftiest and entirely idealistic. Only the complaint is heard that they do not concern themselves with practicalities nor sense the danger of the presence of a large number of men who know what they want, but of whose purposes the public is in ignorance. Even loosely enforced, the lobby law is a club and a broom; a club to knock them down, that the lobbyists or lobbyists and a broom to sweep them out. Watch what happens when the ready instruments are removed.

Changes in the state government in many ways will be marked with deeper and deeper inroads into the classified civil service or merit system. The example in the recent years of finding means of getting around the law, the active participation in politics of a state civil service commission and the failure even to suggest enforcement have left their mark. Spoilsmanship gives itself a bolder and yet more bold expression and service everywhere is subordinated. Even in permitted returns, matters where Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith recognized the efficiency and invaluable services of Samuel M. Johnson, the personal factional appointment is to be made and Tiffin Gilmore of Columbus is to go into the place, with no other recommendation than his work in the campaign. It consisted of use of mailing lists of sportsmen in behalf of a candidate and employment of the time of the state. The classified exemptions are to be switched about in every direction and unless the executive department departs from the standards that have been set the civil service law will be as lightly regarded as the law against illicit liquor and the world knows that 7,000 prosecutions in a single year and 17,000,000 unprosecuted viola-

Patients Tell Of Cure by Coué

By MILTON BRONNER

Lima News Staff Correspondent

ANCY, Franco.—In the camaraderie that exists among all who attend the autosuggestion clinic of Emile Coué I heard a story of what Coué had done for his patients.

To these people I was a fellow sufferer. They wanted to banish my skepticism. So they frankly discussed their own ailments with me.

CASE NUMBER TWO: Another American woman, married to a titled foreigner, has suffered from drooping eyelids. They would drop and completely cover her eyes. Her husband, who is here with her, is a wealthy New York business man. He had called in celebrated specialists of our big cities. No results. She and her husband both told me Coué had cured her. One day when I was there, she turned to her and said, "Madame, when you leave here, always remember you are mistress of your eyelids."

CASE NUMBER THREE: A Canadian civil engineer. He had suffered some kind of lesion in the brain from overwork. He had difficulty in walking. And, sometimes, when he started walking, he had difficulty in stopping. He told me he was well on the way to recovery. And I myself saw him run for a street car and board it without trouble.

CASE NUMBER FOUR: A ranch and mine owner from South Africa who came here for relief from the horrors of insomnia. He is now sleeping like a normal person should. But he told me something more wonderful than that. His spectacles had irritated the skin back of one of his ears. The sore grew bigger and bigger and ever more painful. Doctors in South Africa told him it was some strange fibrous growth and advised him to consult surgeons in England. He isn't going to, because he tells me that since he has been here in Nancy using autosuggestion, the swelling has gone down to one-third its former size and is still decreasing. He believes it will go away entirely.

CASE NUMBER FIVE: An English woman. The marks of sufferings attest the situation in this field of reform.

Governor Donahue's reported intention to ask for the abolition of the job of Director of Commerce may be a blow to the pride of William P. Phipps, who now holds the position, but the response of the state has been encouraging. Donahue has had half a dozen lawyers examine the job and the report has been always the same. On paper, at first glance, the title sounds imposing and the list of departments and bureaus under the director is a formidable one, but further examination reveals that the director has nothing to do save a few clerical duties that can be done by a clerk. Phipps has had his daughter to help him and at a good salary, too. Conceivably, some Democratic patriot might get such aid, but the Governor has had other notions. In this, Grover C. Maxwell of Cleveland, who was offered the job, agreed. The saving of ten thousand dollars to the state impresses him more deeply than $6,500 in his own pocket. A queer idea, indeed!

ing are on her face. Pain has cut deep circles under her eyes. She told me she had been confined to her bed for eight years with various ailments. Now she lives like other people. She goes for long walks. At night she visits the theater and enjoys it.

CASE NUMBER SIX: An American woman from Connecticut. For years a sufferer from asthma. Now she breathes in comfort. She had not been able to enjoy theaters because she couldn't be shut up that way with other people. The other night I saw her at the opera in New York.

I could go on and on, citing other instances. These people are Coué fans. They have all the enthusiasm of religious converts. Some are insisting upon making gifts of money to Monsieur Coué. And when people voluntarily part with money it means something.

TOMORROW—Bronner answers, "What Is Coué's Game?"

WOMAN AND HER LOVER HANGED

English Pair Pay Death Penalty for Slaying Husband

PLEAS FOR CLEMENCY FAIL

Executions Come as Climax to Dramatic Murder Trials

LONDON — (United Press) — Mrs. Percy Thompson, half swooning, was hanged at 9 o'clock this morning at Holloway jail for murder of her husband October 4.

The execution was witnessed by hundreds gathered in chilling rain outside the prison awaiting the solemn clang of the death bell that announced the executions.

One woman bore a placard: "Murder cannot be abolished by murder."

Mrs. Thompson, who made vain appeals for clemency to the last was the first woman executed in England in 15 years.

Only officials were permitted to witness the hangings. High board fences had been erected about the scaffolds at the north of London jails and the public saw nothing of the executions nor of the prisoners as they were taken from their cells.

Official notices of the execution were posted on the gates that at Pontonville saying that Bywaters had been executed, being put up at 9:25 a. m. Mrs. Thompson's notice at 9:33.

The curious crowds outside drifted away without demonstration.

DRAMATIC TRIALS

Mrs. Thompson and Bywaters were found guilty at one of the most dramatic murder trials in English court history of conspiring against the former's husband and plotting his death by stabbing on October 4. Bywaters admitted the stabbing, claiming self-defense. The couple said they had planned to clope together later on and love letters passed between them were produced in which they discussed ways and means of poisoning Percy Thompson.

The prosecution held the jury found that Mrs. Thompson had incited Bywaters to stab her husband but both the youth and the woman protested this was not so. A petition, signed by more than a million people, mostly women, was presented the home secretary, asking a reprieve for Bywaters. Mrs. Thompson also made appeals, but with few signatures.

Most of the public sympathy was with the youth, a ship's steward, who had become infatuated with the woman.

Bywaters walked bravely to the scaffold. He had borne up well throughout the trial and the various appeals preceding the execution, only constantly urging that Mrs. Thompson be spared.

He slept most of last night, ate a light breakfast, smoked a cigarette, sent a last message to the governor of the prison, thanking him for the treatment he had received while there and then walked steadily to his doom.

Ellis, the official executioner, took but a few minutes. Bywaters stood, arms pinioned, on a trap door. A wooden cap was pulled over his head, immediately the rope had been adjusted and death was certified to have been instantaneous.

Mrs. Thompson passed a fair night but was in a state of complete collapse at 7:30 this morning. She was practically unconscious for the two hours that preceded the execution and was carried to the scaffold with a physician in constant attendance.

EAST IRON RECEIVERSHIP WILL BE ENDED JAN. 31; PLANT WEATHERS STORM

Receivership of the East Iron & Machine Co., manufacturers of asphalt plants will be lifted January 31, it was announced Tuesday at the offices of the company.

Withdrawal of the support of the federal court means that the company has successfully weathered the financial storm and is now ready to meet its obligations as they are presented. Friendly proceedings were started in the Toledo federal court two years ago whereby the company would be enabled to conserve its cash assets for the operation and expansion of its business, C. C. Mosher, vice-president and manager, said.

As a result it was never necessary for the plant to close down and it has now reached such point in its affairs that it will be able to meet maturing obligations as they fall due without making it necessary to pay out all cash on hand.

Refinancing of the corporation may be seen in the near future, it is said, as the demands of the business has outgrown the present plant and larger facilities must be provided.

VACANCIES ON MUNICIPAL BOARDS WILL BE FILLED BY DELPHOS MAYOR SOON

Three appointments, with the possibility of a fourth, will be made by Mayor J. K. Williams of Delphos, for seats on Delphos municipal boards.

There will go two appointments for the board of health, term of M. H. Westrich expiring and F. C. Laing resigning. Dr. G. G. McCoy's term on the board of sinking fund trustee has expired. It is believed that one of the members of the library board will retire this year, but this was not definitely determined until Tuesday night. Records will be searched to determine whether a vacancy does not exist.

Williams indicated Tuesday that the board of health appointments may be ready to report Tuesday night at the council meeting.

DEMPESTER FUNERAL TO BE HELD HERE WEDNESDAY

HOME RULE UPSET BY DONAHEY

said will exist between the governor and the assembly.

The governor's reference to cooperation made in the concluding part of his public address pointed out that his authority and that of the legislature came from the same source.

"We are here to serve all the people of Ohio," he said. "There is an even balance between our respective parties in this state, that if I prove a partisan rather than a patriot, another will address you in two years. But if you forget your duties to your state and seek partisan advantage by opposing what I may be able to make for the public good, the next governor will look into strange faces in this hall in 1925. Let us therefore join hands and give this grand old commonwealth the best service of which we are capable."

The governor devoted more time to taxation than any other item, declaring that "unscientific tinkering" with the tax laws, and the placing of taxpayers "at the mercy of public officials whose caprices might suggest bond issues or increased tax levies" had resulted in an increase of 250 percent in direct taxes in eleven years, and the development of a "hodge-podge" system "violated with impunity by many taxing districts to stave off bankruptcy."

UNIFORM RULE

Declaring that the energies of past general assemblies have been directed toward increasing the taxes, Governor Donahey inveighed against a reappraisal of real estate "when post war values have not yet become stabilized" and advanced the uniform rule as the only solution.

In setting forth his taxation program, which he termed "a majority home rule in taxation and debt limitation," the chief executive said he hoped that if there was any doubt in the minds of the legislators as to whether or not the people would approve it, they would submit it to a referendum.

"The bill would contemplate abolishment of the state tax commission, except for a few functions now handled by a commission, which might be transferred to some other existing state department," said Donahey. "It has in view, ultimate removal of all direct state levies, which now fall so unequally upon the various local taxing districts on account of unequal valuation as between counties."

"The crucial feature of it is the removal of all tax rate and debt limitations. It would give the people of each taxing district direct and full control over future increase in tax levies, debts and sources of revenue. Why should they not be permitted to vote their tax rates as high as they want them and issue as many bonds as they desire, so long as they themselves pay the bills they create? Caro must be exercised, of course, so that actual majorities of the electors always govern. Tax questions and bond issues should be submitted preferably only at regular November elections. If submitted at a special election, a proposal should not carry unless approved by a majority of the total vote cast at the last preceding regular election."

"Such a system would guarantee absolute and full home rule by actual majorities, each taxing district for itself. It would do away with the injustice of an unequal valuation of property among counties and give each district the choice of paying high rates on low valuations or low rates on high valuations.

"The evil of our present and past taxation laws has been that the taxpayers have been at the mercy of a few public officials and little self-seeking minorities of people. If public officials and little minorities are to continue to control our debt and taxation system, it is only a question of time until the state and many of its subdivisions will be in the hands of receivers."

"One of the least understood instruments issued by government is the tax bill and receipt handed to the taxpayer. All the taxpayer can discern from the face of this paper is lands or lots valued at so many dollars, total rate, so much amount paid, so many dollars. If a merchant or business man would bill his goods in such a manner he never would collect a cent."

"The tax receipt handed to the taxpayer, besides the usual statement carried on the face of the receipt, should have stamped or printed on its back all of the various levies applied to each district in detail and a total for all the taxing districts combined. If this were done, the taxpayer would know just how much the state, city, village, county, school district, or township had levied for the year."

If his taxes were increased or decreased by comparison with his last year's receipt, he would know exactly which taxing district was responsible for any increase or decrease as the case might be. In this manner, the taxpayer would know where to fix the responsibility for any increase or decrease. It is time to enact a law, which will require officials to give taxpayers a receipt bill setting forth the information to which they are entitled."

COULD ELIMINATE $50,000
"Such a system would have a tendency to decrease rather than increase taxes, and there could be no dodging of responsibility by state or district taxing authorities."

"If this were done, there would be no necessity of publishing in county newspapers, the rates of taxation and $50,000 a year could be eliminated."

Appended to the governor's request that the legislature show no fear of the initiative and referendum and bring it into more general use, was a request that the emergency clause be reserved for legislation "actual necessary."

"I trust you may not consider it effrontery for me to caution you against enactment of over-hasty, ill-considered legislation of great import," he said. "At all times, let us guard against thwarting the exercise of the voice of the people by enactment of emergency clauses to legislate on which is not actually necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety."

In urging that the election laws be revised, the governor declared that Ohio taxpayers now are paying $2,300,000 a year to hold elections—more than twice what it should many's calm view of France's movements, adding, "we shall not forever bow to force, and we cannot forever yield to threats and thus go into the abyss. The allies in Paris did desire to hear our proposals and could not agree to their own. The solution has again been postponed. Certain French circles apparently really believe that reparations can be obtained thru force."

"I said at Hamburg that every compulsory measure signified death to economic reparations. I repeat this today most seriously and emphatically. Just as strongly as we were and are ready to pay to the limit of our economic strength, just so strongly are we unwilling to bow to compulsion. We have proved our willingness to pay voluntarily. The German people, if necessary, will walk the road of suffering, but they will not deal under pressure and threats."

be. He pointed to increases in the number of prefects from 422 in 1920 to 850 in 1922, and said that these, with the annual cost of registration in cities, were large items of expense. He urged permanent registration with the voter-appearing before the county board of elections to register after a had moved out of a precinct and the consolidation of voting precincts, many of which he said had only a few voters.

Transfer of the automobile registration to the pentennial where the tags now are manufactured, would not only accomplish this work without cost, but would give employment to prisoners, now idle, no pointed out.

The governor also urged that distribution of the tags be accomplished thru county treasurers, with the county immediately deducting from the funds collected, half of which goes to the county.

In explaining his request that a single board govern the four state universities and two normal schools, Mr. Donahey said that the president of the institutions were compelled to lobby and plead for their share of state appropriations, and that a control board could judge as to the relative requirements of the institutions and make recommendations accordingly. He pointed out that the annual cost of operating the four state universities had increased from $800,000, in 1913, to $4,000,000, on June 30, 1921.

DELPHOS FAIR OFFICERS ATTEND MEET AT CAPITAL

H. D. Bickel and Henry A. Lang, president and vice-president respectively of the Delphos Tri-county Fair association, left Tuesday to attend the January meeting of the Ohio Fair circuit Wednesday and Thursday in Columbus. The association voted to join the circuit at a meeting last week.

The Delphos delegates will investigate the possibility of securing state aid for the tri-county event. Information has reached fair officials that such aid is available to independent fairs established for three years, but has not been confirmed.

The association will stage its third consecutive fair this year September 11 to 15 inclusive.

WOMAN AND HER LOVER HANGEDEnglish Pair Pay Death Penalty for Slaying Husband

PLEAS FOR CLEMENCY FAIL

Executions Come as Climax to Dramatic Murder Trials

LONDON — (United Press) — Mrs. Percy Thompson, half swooning, was hanged at 9 o'clock this morning at Holloway jail for murder of her husband October 4.

At the same hour in Pentonville prison, Frederick Edward Bywaters, her lover, found jointly guilty of the crime, was hanged.

Hundreds gathered in chilling rain outside the prisons awaiting the single, solemn clang of the death bell that announced the executions.

One woman bore a placard which read: "Murder cannot be abolished by murder."

Mrs. Thompson, who made vain appeals for clemency to the last, was the first woman executed in England in 15 years.

Only officials were permitted to witness the hangings. High board fences had been erected about the scaffolds at the north of London jails and the public saw nothing of the executions nor of the prisoners as they were taken from their cells.

Official notices of the execution were posted on the gates; that at Pentonville saying that Bywaters had been executed, being put up at 9:25 a. m., Mrs. Thompson's notice at 9:33.

The curious crowds outside drifted away without demonstration.

DRAMATIC TRIALS

Mrs. Thompson and Bywaters were found guilty at one of the most dramatic murder trials in English court history of conspiring against the former's husband and effecting his death by stabbing on October 4.

Bywaters admitted the stabbing, claiming self-defense. The couple said they had planned to elope together later on and love letters passed between them were produced in which they discussed ways and means of poisoning Percy Thompson.

The prosecution held the jury found that Mrs. Thompson had incited Bywaters to slay her husband but both the youth and the woman protested this was not so. A petition, signed by more than a million people, mostly women, was presented the home secretary, asking a reprieve for Bywaters. Mrs. Thompson also made appeals, but with few signatures.

Most of the public sympathy was with the youth, a ship's steward, who had become infatuated with the woman.

Bywaters walked bravely to the scaffold. He had borne up well throughout the trial and the various appeals preceding the execution, only constantly urging that Mrs. Thompson be spared.

He slept most of last night, ate a light breakfast, smoked a cigarette, sent a last message to the governor of the prison, thanking him for the treatment he had received while there and then walked steadily to his execution.

Ellis, the official executioner, took but a couple of minutes. Bywaters stood, arms pinioned, on a trap door. A wooden cap was pulled over his head, immediately the rope had been adjusted and death was certified to have been instantaneous.

Mrs. Thompson passed a fair night but was in a state of complete collapse at 7:30 this morning. She was practically unconscious for the two hours that preceded the execution and was carried to the scaffold with a physician in constant attendance.

EAST IRON RECEIVERSHIP
WILL BE ENDED JAN. 31;
PLANT WEATHERS STORM

Receivership of the East Iron & Machine Co., manufacturers of asphalt plants will be lifted January 31, it was announced Tuesday at the offices of the company.

Withdrawal of the support of the federal court means that the company has successfully weathered the financial storm and is now free to meet its obligations as they are presented.

Friendly proceedings were started in the Toledo federal court two years ago whereby the company would be enabled to conserve its cash assets for the operation and expansion of its business, C. C. Mosher, vice-president and manager, said.

As a result it was never necessary for the plant to close down and it has now reached such point in its affairs that it will be able to meet maturing obligations as they fall due without making it necessary to pay out all cash on hand.

Refinancing of the corporation may be seen in the near future, it is said, as the demands of the business has outgrown the present plant and larger facilities must be provided.

VACANCIES ON MUNICIPAL BOARDS WILL BE FILLED
BY DELPHOS MAYOR SOON

Three appointments, with the possibility of a fourth, will be made by Mayor J. K. Williams of Delphos, for seats on Delphos municipal boards.

There will be two appointments for the board of health, term of M. H. Westerfield expiring and F. C. Laking resigning. Dr. G. G. McCoy's term on the board of sinking fund trustees has expired. It is believed that one of the members of the library board will retire this year, but this was not definitely determined until Tuesday night. Records will be searched to determine whether a vacancy does not exist.

Williams intimated Tuesday that the board of health appointments may be ready to report Tuesday night at the council meeting.

DEMPSTER FUNERAL TO BE

HOME RULE URGED

said will exist between the governor and the assembly.

The governor's reference to cooperation made in the concluding part of his communication pointed out that his authority and that of the legislature came from the same source.

"We are here to serve all the people of Ohio," he said. "There is an even balance between our respective parties in this state, that if I prove a partisan rather than a patriot, another will address you in two years. But if you forget your duties to your state and seek partisan advantage by opposing what ever proposal I may be able to make for the public good, the next governor will look into strange faces in this hall in 1925. Let us therefore join hands and give this grand old commonwealth the best service of which we are capable."

The governor devoted more time to taxation than any other item, declaring that "unscientific tinkering" with the tax laws, and the placing of taxpayers at the mercy of public officials whose caprices might suggest bond issues or increased tax levies had resulted in an increase of 200 percent in direct taxes in eleven years, and the development of a "hodge-podge" system, "violated with impunity by many taxing districts to slave off bankruptcy."

UNIFORM RULE

Declaring that the energies of past general assemblies have been directed toward increasing the taxes, Governor Donahey inveighed against a reappraisal of real estate "when past war values have not yet become stabilized and advanced the uniform rule as the only solution."

In setting forth his taxation program, which he termed "a majority home rule in taxation and debt limitation," the chief executive said he hoped that if there was any doubt in the minds of the legislators as to whether or not the people would approve it, they would submit it to a referendum.

"The bill would contemplate abolishment of the state tax commission, except for a few functions now handled by the commission, which might be transferred to some other existing state department," said Donahey. "It has in view, ultimate removal of all direct state levies, which now fall so unequally upon the various local taxing districts on account of unequal valuation as between counties."

"The crucial feature of it is the repeal of all tax rate and debt limitations. It would give the people of each taxing district, direct and full control over future increase in tax levies, debts and sources of revenue. Why should they not be permitted to vote their tax rates as high as they want them and issue as many bonds as they desire, so long as they themselves pay the bills they create? Caro must be exercised, of course, so that actual majorities of the electors always govern. Tax questions and bond issues should be submitted preferably only at regular November elections. If submitted at a special election, a proposal should carry unless approved by a majority of the total vote cast at the last preceding regular election."

HOME RULE BY MAJORITIES

"Such a system would guarantee absolute and full home rule by actual majorities, each taxing district for itself. It would do away with the injustice of an unequal valuation of property among counties and give each district the choice of paying high rates on low valuations or low rates on high valuations.

"The evil of our present and past taxation laws has been that the taxpayers have been at the mercurial caprices of a few public officials and little self-seeking minorities of minorities are to continue to control our debt and taxation system. It is only a question of time until the state and many of its subdivisions will be in the hands of receivers."

"One of the least understood instruments issued by government is the tax bill and receipt handed to Ohio taxpayers. All the taxpayer can discern from the face of this paper is lands or lots valued at so many dollars, total rate, so much amount paid, so many dollars. If a merchant or business man would bill his goods in such a manner he never would collect a cent."

"The tax receipt handed to the taxpayer, besides the usual statement carried on the face of the receipt, should have stamped or printed on its back all of the various levies applied to each district in detail and a total for all the taxing districts combined. If this were done, the taxpayer would know just how much the state, city, village, county, school district, or township had levied for the year."

If his taxes were increased or decreased by comparison with his last year's receipt, he would know exactly which taxing district was responsible for any increase or decrease as the case might be. In this manner, the taxpayer would know where to fix the responsibility for any increase or decrease. It is time to enact a law, which will require officials to give taxpayers a receipt bill setting forth the information to which they are entitled.

COULD ELIMINATE $50,000

"Such a system would have a tendency to decrease rather than increase taxes, and there could be no dodging of responsibility by state or district, taxing authorities."

"If this were done, there would be no necessity of publishing in county newspapers, the rates of taxation and $50,000, a year could be eliminated."

Appended to the governor's request that the legislature show no fear of the initiative and referendum and bring it into more general use was a request that the emergency clause be reserved for legislation "actual necessary."

"I trust you may not consider it affrontary for me to caution you against enactment of over-hasty, ill-considered legislation of great import," he said. "At all times, let us guard against thwarting the exercise of the voice of the people by enactment of emergency clauses to legislate on which is not actually necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety."

In urging that the election laws be revised, the governor declared that Ohio taxpayers now are paying $2,200,000 a year to hold elections—more than twice what it should many's calm view of France's movements, adding, "we shall not forever bow to force, and we cannot forever yield to threats and thus go into the abyss. The allies in Paris did desire to hear our proposals and could not agree to their own. The solution has again been postponed. Certain French circles apparently really believe that reparations can be obtained thru force."

"I said at Hamburg that every compulsory measure signified death to economic reparations. I repeat this today most seriously and emphatically. Just as strongly as we were and are ready to pay to the limit of our economic strength, just so strongly are we unwilling to bow to compulsion. We have proved our willingness to pay voluntarily. The German people, if necessary, will walk the road of suffering, but they will not deal under pressure and threats."

GERMANY'S COURSE

"We cannot meet force, but in the complete separation of the German people and in their fullest resolution we can do this: show the world in its true light the economic unreasonableness and illegality of the French procedure."

"But force remains force. France is attempting to garb her action

DELPHOS FAIR OFFICERS
ATTEND MEET AT CAPITAL

H. D. Bickel and Henry A. Lang, president and vice-president respectively of the Delphos Tri-county Fair association, left Tuesday to attend the January meeting of the Ohio Fair circuit Wednesday and Thursday in Columbus. The association voted to join the circuit at a meeting last week.

The Delphos delegates will investigate the possibility of securing state aid for the tri-county event. Information has reached fair officials that such aid is available to independent fairs established for three years, but has not been confirmed.

The association will stage its third consecutive fair this year September 11 to 15 inclusive.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Multified cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Multified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub the Multified in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rises out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multified cocoon oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap and every one will find everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multified.—Adv.

DELPHOS FAIR OFFICERS
ATTEND MEET AT CAPITAL

H. D. Bickel and Henry A. Lang, president and vice-president respectively of the Delphos Tri-county Fair association, left Tuesday to attend the January meeting of the Ohio Fair circuit Wednesday and Thursday in Columbus. The association voted to join the circuit at a meeting last week.

The Delphos delegates will investigate the possibility of securing state aid for the tri-county event. Information has reached fair officials that such aid is available to independent fairs established for three years, but has not been confirmed.

The association will stage its third consecutive fair this year September 11 to 15 inclusive.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Multified cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Multified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub the Multified in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rises out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multified cocoon oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap and every one will find everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multified.—Adv.

TREAT 'EM ALIKE, JACKSON SAYS

Wealth, Poverty Does Not Influence Court, He Asserts

MORE SNOW CASES REVIEWED

Many Yet to Appear on Charges

Wealth or lack of it makes no difference to this court, declared Judge Emmett Jackson in Criminal court Tuesday morning in explaining his actions in the snow removal cases.

The statement was made following a heated argument with C. L. Foss, attorney, 1040 W. High-st., who asserted his disapproval of the action of city departments in issuing warrants for alleged violators of the snow law, who failed to appear in court Monday.

All violators of the law, Jackson said, should be treated alike, whether rich or poor. The 15 cases were filed, and will be compelled to appear in court.

MANY ANSWER NAMES

Besides Foss, the following answered their names in court and after pleading guilty were dismissed with the admonition to obey the law in the future.

Dr. Crawford, O. B. Selfridge, Mrs. Mary Louise Long, Oliver M. Polser, George Hooper, Dr. Haffman, C. L. Davidson, Henry French, R. M. Marshall, Marie Simmons.

Those who have not answered charges, and against some of whom warrants have not been issued as yet include:

Frank Jones, Frank Kominski, Guy C. Oeder, James Georgeopoulos, Harry C. Bell, D. E. Meade, May Duffield, S. T. Morris, H. M. Jacobs, A. A. Pishel, Sadie Rousher, Peter Beck, Val Heil, Cora M. Helma, Tunia A. Sharp, Dudley Bernstein, C. W. Morrison, M. G. Diamond, Alpha Dilzer, H. L. Lusk, Evans Swancott, Mary A. Elder, W. L. Russell, R. E. Davies, W. G. Howe, Fred Cook, Dave Kilgore, Della Satherwaite.

The excuse of breaking his shovel was told to Jackson by C. L. Davidson again on Tuesday morning.

Following a remark by Mrs. Mary Louise Long that she was president of her Ladies' Aid Society, Judge Jackson extended an invitation to all members of the society to visit the court and take an interest in the welfare of the city's unfortunates.

AUGUST SMITH NEAR DEATH AS GRANDSON, AGED 10, DIES

As August Smith, former sheriff of Auglaize-co., lies at death's door, in St. Rita's hospital, the fact that his grandson, Cullen Smith, aged ten, had died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Florian W. Smith, in Wapakoneta, was not kept from him. The child died of inflammatory rheumatism, after a brief illness.

Smith was received at the hospital here, suffering from infection due to a carbuncle which poisoned his system. Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

CHICKENS STOLEN

Fifteen chickens were stolen from a hen house at the home of Mrs. Charles Johnson, in Van Wert, Monday night. Officers expect to be able to locate them easily, as the tall feathers had been closely cut from all the fowls.

Bronner Sizes Up "Coue's Game"

BY MILTON BRONNER
Lima News Staff Correspondent

ANCY, France. "What's this man Coue's game?" That's a question I have been asked since I have been attending the far-famed Emile Coue auto-suggestion clinics here.

And I have concluded there isn't any game except the desire to help people.

If he soaked people a big fee for his services, Americans would wink the other eye and say "That's it." But he doesn't charge any fees. Every person who comes to the clinics is welcome and every person gets the same treatment and gets it for nothing.

If one wants to, he can buy a little French book in which Coue explains his system. But the book isn't pushed on you and its cost is only two francs. The 15 cents you pay for it just about pays for paper and printing.

Also old Marie, Coue's maid, has on sale pictures of Coue in his clinic with his patients. But here, again, the price is so nominal that it merely pays for photography and paper.

LIKE RELIGIOUS LEADER

Perhaps the better way to get at the secret of Coue is to compare him to the founder of a new religion. The latter wants all the world to have the happiness he is, sure it will bring to them.

That is the way with Coue. He is sure he has got hold of a great truth which other men have appreciated only in part. He is sure he has invented a formula and a method by which suffering mankind can make the most out of this truth and get the most out of it. And he brings to his work the passion, the faith and the fervor of the evangelist. Only it must always be made clear that in Couelism there is nothing in the way of a new religion or cult.

Coue finds the doctors agreeing with him. Distinguished medical men of France, Switzerland, Belgium and Great Britain have recognized the value of the work he is doing.

SEEKS DOCTOR'S FRIENDSHIP

One of the goals he has set for himself on his present visit to America is to interest the medical profession of the United States in what he is doing and has done. He is confident, if they watch him work and observe the results he obtains, that they will be friendly and not hostile.

From my own observation and experiences here, I would say that Coue's greatest value to people is that he brings a health gospel of hope and optimism instead of despair and pessimism.

I don't know how teachers of the Coue method will succeed, but Coue himself simply radiates cheer. And it's contagious, that and the belief in the power of the imagination, the unconscious mind, over the body.

SMOKE CAUSES ALARM

The first call answered by the present day shift of the fire department came at 11:20 a. m. Tuesday when an alarm was received from the home of Mrs. A. Coplin, 865 W. North-st. A defective chimney filled the house with smoke and neighbors turned in the alarm, it is said. There was no damage.

EXAMINATION STARTED

C. F. Risser, Cleveland, state examiner, began examination of Delphos municipal record, for 1922 Tuesday morning. The task will require three weeks. Risser will leave Thursday to attend a meeting of examiners Friday in Columbus.

CAMPBELL ON TRIAL

Ernest Campbell, salesman, arrested on complaint on the Timmerman Motor Sales Co., will be tried before Justice E. M. Botkin late Tuesday on a charge of moving a mortgaged car from one state to another. He has entered a plea of not guilty.

BANK MEETING TODAY

Annual stockholders' meetings of the Old National and the First National banks will be held Tuesday afternoon.

PRIESTS IN HOSPITAL

Rev. N. A. Bouschere of St. Rose parish and Rev. Alfred Month of St. Gerard's parish are both confined at St. Rita's hospital. Rev. Bouschere is suffering from an attack of grippe and Rev. Month having undergone an operation for the removal of his tonsils.

DOUGHTER ARRIVES

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold McPherson, 1023 N. Main-st., at St. Rita's hospital Tuesday morning.

STREETS TO BE PAVED

Ordinances to proceed with the paving of Michael-av between Pine and Calumet-sts, Wayne-st between the Allentown-rd and Glenwood-av and Main-st between Woodlawn-av and the corporation line were passed by the city commission Monday night.

HOSPITAL BOARD CLASH SEEN

Fireworks May Break Out in District Meet Today

RECORDS NOT COMPLETED

Test of Authority May be Issue in Body

With four of the five suspended trustees present, a clash in authority was predicted Tuesday when the joint board of county commissioners assembled at the District Tuberculosis hospital to hear the findings of the investigating committee in relation to Dr. C. A. Files, superintendent.

Dr. J. M. Patterson, who is the target for additional accusations filed by three farm hands living at the institution, was present. He will be allowed to testify during the day.

Failure of the stenographers, Walter Scott and Harold Bowman to finish transcribing the testimony, will prevent the entire record being read Tuesday. The portion completed will be read, however.

The record was not ordered in time to be written, the reporters explained. The matter is too voluminous to be dashed off in a hurry, they say.

MEETING DELAYED

Because Van Wert and Shelby-count members coming overland to the meeting failed to arrive, before noon, no testimony was read. The affidavits signed by hospital workers, naming Dr. Patterson, will be taken up during the afternoon.

Clash in authority between the joint board and the suspended trustees if the former attempt to allow the bills, contracted by the trustees is predicted.

W. W. Craig, president of the joint board, declared Tuesday that if an attempt was to be made by the trustees to meet and override the joint board, he knew nothing of it.

Court action in the form of a writ of mandamus, compelling the joint board to reinstate the trustees did not materialize during the morning. Trustees and commissioners who are seeking to oust Dr. C. A. Files, superintendent, were expected to come prepared with a court order. It is possible for the trustees to make application for an order in any of the five counties.

PATTERSON IS RETICENT

Dr. Patterson, who is to be quizzed by the joint-board and perhaps ousted, would not express an opinion on the possible outcome prior to the meeting.

Charges were originally brought against Dr. Files by Dr. Patterson, Leroy Danner was named president of Journeymen barbers' local No. 58, at the annual banquet held at the Barr Hotel. More than 100 tonsorial artists attended.

who alleged that the superintendent was extravagant. Files was forced to resign, effective January 1. Then trustees were suspended pending an investigation.

Report of the investigation, signed by three members censured the trustees for bad business methods and suggested that Files be reinstated and Patterson discharged.

TED RETIRES TEMPORARILY

Good weather for a spell of hibernation, the weather mascot decides, after making a survey of the situation. However, Ted's lapse of activity is only temporary. A nest in a corn shock, on the lee side, afforded a comfortable place for a snooze while Boreas' blasts were a mixture of rain, sleet and snow.

Colder and generally fair tonight, except snow flurries near Lake Erie. Wednesday, fair and warmer on west portion. Tonight's program ought to put new pep in everybody, but the prospect of slush snow being frozen in sharp ridges on pavements, crossings and bridges, isn't a pleasing prospect, by any means.

However, that's about what will occur, if the weather forecast is anything near correct. Then tomorrow we are to be again served with about the same sort of thing provided this day—maybe worse.

Those whose duties did not call for outdoor activity Tuesday were fortunate. Loafing about a radiator was much more preferable than sizzling about thru snow and water.

JOURNEYMEN BARBERS FEAST, PICK OFFICERS

Leroy Danner was named president of Journeymen barbers' local No. 58, at the annual banquet held at the Barr Hotel. More than 100 tonsorial artists attended.

Other officers for the next year are: Robert Hume, vice president; Carl Stromquist, secretary and treasurer; George Rhoades, recording secretary; Robert Hancock, guide.

RESIGNATION OF DELPHOS PASTOR IS CONSIDERED

Resignation of Rev. George H. Gibson from the pastorate of the Delphos Presbyterian church, will be considered at a meeting of the church board Tuesday night.

Gibson announced his resignation to his congregation December 30. He may assume charge of a Detroit church. He has been in Delphos four years.

"JACK THE PEEPER" AT LARGE, POLICE TOLD

Keep your window blinds down. Pull them all the way down. This advice was given out at the police station Tuesday, following a report by W. A. Heilrick, 334 W. Kibby-st., that a "Jack the peeper" was looking thru the windows of his home late Monday night.

Police answered the call, but were unable to find trace of the man.

5 MEN ARRAIGNED ON INDICTMENTS

Three Admit Guilt, Others to Stand Trial

Defendants in five cases in which indictments were returned by the Allen county grand jury, were arraigned before Judge Fred C. Becker in common pleas court Tuesday.

Three pleas of guilty were made, and two prisoners stoutly protested their innocence.

C. W. Sampson, 46, colored, circus clown, acrobat and strong man, pleaded guilty to stealing a motor car belonging to J. J. Russell, colored, paving worker. Value of the car is $75.

Herbert Roney, 18, pleaded guilty to taking a joy ride in a car without consent of the owner.

"I just wanted to take a little spin with some girl friends," he told the court. "I meant to bring it right back."

PLEA IS CHANGED

Morris Morrissey, 18, former express employee, 1012 Arch-av, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing $150 worth of perfumes and toilet water, being returned to the Palmolive Soap Co., Milwaukee, by Feldman's store.

After a few minutes' reflection, however, he admitted his guilt, and told the story of the robbery.

The package was taken from an express truck at the Pennsylvania station by a confederate, known to police as "Shorty the Bum." The package was dropped thru the viaduct to Morrissey, waiting below in the N. Union-st tunnel.

Morrissey apparently was induced to undertake the theft by his confederate. While detectives were trailing Morrissey, the other man left the city.

No sentences were pronounced by the court.

Floyd Mitchell, indicted on a charge of receiving stolen goods, and Alva Phillips, indicted for assault, pleaded not guilty. Their trials will be set later.

CERTIFIED OATS SEED NOW AVAILABLE HERE

A few bushels of seed oats raised on the Ohio Experimental station at Wooster are available for Allen county farmers. H. J. Rudge, farm agent, has announced.

This seed is certified as to purity and fertility and the amount on hand is being distributed to the counties in the northern section of the state. Each county will receive between five and 20 bushels of the seed.

Rudge is desirous of having a number of the farmers of the county purchase some of the seed, even the only a bushel is available for each, as it will mean the introduction of good seed on the farms. It is available at 55 cents a bushel.

Those interested in the purchase of seed oats may learn full details of the varieties available by applying at farm bureau headquarters.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WORK

Gained Strength, Weight and Now Doing Own Work, by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Marion, Ind.—"I was all run-down, nervous and bent over. I could hardly drag around, let alone do my work. I read some letters in the papers telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and I thought I would try it. Then a man told my husband about his wife and what good it had done her and wanted him to have me try it. I took one bottle and could see what it did for me in a week's time, and when I had taken three bottles I had gained both in strength and weight and was doing my own work. I took it before my last baby was born and it helped me so much. I sure am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who suffers from female ailments, for I know by experience what it can do. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, also the Liver Pills, too, and think them fine."—Mrs. Wm. Eldridge, 620 E. Grant Street, Marion, Indiana.

A record of nearly fifty years service should convince you of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

THRIFT KITCHENS WILL BE USED

Housewives Will be Shown How to Economize

BIG FEATURE OF CAMPAIGN

Essay Contest Also Provided by Federation

Establishment of "Thrift Kitchens" in various sections of the city will be one of the features of Thrift Week, which will open throughout the nation January 17. It will be under the direction of the Y. M. C. A.

They will be placed in the central, eastern and southern sections of the city at least and will be under the care of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

General aims of these kitchens will be to show the housewife how she can prepare tasty and nutritious foods at the very minimum of cost. At the same time, other thrift lessons will be imparted.

Assistance of the Allen-co Farm Bureau may also be seen in the kitchens as there is a corps of trained workers connected with the Ohio State University available for this kind of work.

PLAN ESSAY CONTEST

An essay contest will also be staged by the Federation. Mrs. Beecher Moke has announced. The subject will be "Thrift in the Home" and the best essays will receive suitable awards.

Rules for the contest are as follows:

1. Open to all housewives or others charged with responsibility for home management.
2. Essays not to exceed five hundred words and should include a family budget (budget not to be counted in the 50 words.)
3. Essays are to be in the hands of Mrs. H. C. Thew, 7700 Lakewood av., not later than January 20.
4. Prizes will be awarded as soon as the judges reach their decision.
5. Contestants are not to sign their names. Each should use a Nom de plume and enclose it with real name in a sealed envelope and submit it with essay.
6. Write in ink on one side of paper, preferably size 8-2x11. Typewriter may be used.

Prizes are $10, $5 and $3 in the form of bank accounts.

WIFE IN DISTRESS

Makes Charges Against Husband in Suit

Marital life brought loss of sleep and mental torture to Arnette Berline, 709 S. Union-st., who asserts in a petition seeking divorce filed in common pleas court Tuesday.

She was annoyed at night, she avers, by the continual cursing and abuse of William Berline, blacksmith. The pair were married June 6, 1921.

Abuse hurled at her head by her blacksmith mate, accompanied by assaults and ill treatment, sapped her health and good nature, the wife alleges.

Coupled with this alleged cruelty, she says, were unjust accusations, charging her with misconduct. The plaintiff seeks alimony. She asserts that Berline owns property in 709 S. Union-st., and an automobile.

100 MEMBERSHIPS

Farm Bureau Campaign Meeting With Success

Memberships obtained by the solicitors for the Allen-co Farm Bureau on the first day of the campaign will total more than 100, it was believed at headquarters Tuesday.

Workers are concentrating their efforts in Bath and American-tips for the first few days this week. Other workers will begin the solicitation in other townships later in the week, W. R. Price, president of the bureau, says.

Practically all farm bureau meetings have been postponed during the campaign in order that the workers can devote their entire time to the solicitation.

HEART BALM SUIT OPENS IN PUTNAM-CO COURT

Trial of a $10,000 heart balm suit instituted in Putnam-co common pleas court by William DeLaney, taxi driver, 323 N. McDonell-st., against J. E. Beacom, wealthy farmer, before Judge E. R. Eastman, in Ottawa Tuesday.

DeLaney, charges that Beacom has lured away the affections of Mrs. Gladys DeLaney, whom he accused of allowing Beacom to visit her, while he was away on a fishing trip.

The action was instituted in Putnam-co after the wife had instituted divorce action in Allen-co on grounds of neglect and cruelty. DeLaney later countered with a cross petition, making allegations similar to those contained in the suit for alienation of affections.

WOMAN DENIES CHARGE OF BEING INTOXICATED

Florence Bacone, 26, Central hotel, pleaded not guilty to charges of being drunk and disorderly in criminal court Tuesday morning. Trial will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Henry R. Baker, 58, of no address, asserted that not only was he made intoxicated by the "hooch" he drank, but that he had been slightly poisoned. He was fined $15 and committed to the city jail until the fine is paid.

Emmett H. Bumble, 18, former bellhop at the Waldo hotel, was fined $10 on a charge of vagrancy. He was arrested at 4:20 a. m. Tuesday while loitering around the Pennsylvania shops.

CARRIES HER MAKEUP IMPLEMENTS CAMOUFLAGED AS A BLUSHING ROSE

Note the pretty floral cluster on this sweet society young woman's wrist?

It isn't quite as purely ornamental as it looks. Concealed beneath the blushing rose in a powder puff, a small rouge stick, and an eyebrow pencil as well.

It's known as the "wrist corsage"—the latest feminine fad. With sleeveless frocks and evening gowns, emergency makeup implements aren't easy to carry around otherwise. But with the "wrist corsage" they're always at hand. The "corsage" makes a fetching decoration, too.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY WORTHY MATRONS CLUB

Annual election of officers of First Worthy Matrons club was held Monday night in the shrine room of the Musonic Temple, the following officers being elected: Mrs. Anna Gilze, president; Mrs. Alice Pence, vice-president; and Mrs. Thura Myers, secretary-treasurer. A coveted dish lunch was served afterward by Mrs. Ada Manhard, assisted by Mrs. Louise Long and Miss Elizabeth Wordin.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ellen Vogel, Adagio apartments.

Impromptu Program at Luncheon Proves Pleasing

Kiwanians made merry at their regular luncheon Tuesday noon at the Hotel Argonne.

During the repast they were entertained by the Apollo 12 and B orchestra of Chicago, which dispensed jazzy melodies. This orchestra may be employed for the governor's ball, January 16, it was announced.

Then came an impromptu trio composed of Iotarian R. B. Mikosell and Kiwanians J. Allen Grubb and Gibson Dildine. Grubb also sang three solos, "The Wedding Day," "Blitheness of Love" and "The Drum Major."

A resolution thanking Clayton J. Paine for his efficient work as secretary of the club during the past year was adopted by the club. Duties as controller of the Gramme-Bernstein Motor Truck Co. made it necessary for him to resign.

Several announcements regarding the meeting of the officers and trustees of the Ohio Kiwanis club to be held here January 16 and the banquet in the evening were made by J. E. Norton. He also announced the first annual meeting of the chamber of commerce and better business bureau at the Elks home Wednesday evening.

A short talk on thrift and the place of the luncheon club in the community was made by Tom Pearson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. He stressed the Thrift Week campaign which will start in Lima January 17 and outlined several ways in which Kiwanians may help the project.

THREE DELPHOS STREETS WILL BE IMPROVED IF ORDINANCE IS PASSED

Preparation of three new ordinances with which improvement of three Delphos streets, S. Main, S. Pierce and Cleveland, is expected to be affected, has been completed, according to W. H. Shaffer, clerk of Delphos city council, Tuesday.

Repeat of three other ordinances under which the triple project was instituted but never finished, will be considered at a meeting of council Tuesday night.

In event favorable action is taken, council will strive to effect an early start in spring.

Members of council and the board of control denied Tuesday that property owners are forming opposition.

Passage of the semi-annual appropriation ordinance will take place. It was framed at a meeting Monday night of the finance committee, John Scherger and Ben Davis. John Altenburger was unable to serve, owing to his recent succession from councilman to president of council.

Report of Fire Chief Frank Grothues concerning fire loss and other data for 1922 will be submitted.

NINE APPEAR IN POLICE COURT ON TRAFFIC CHARGE

The police cruade on violations of the traffic laws brought nine alleged offenders into criminal court Tuesday morning.

The following each paid a fine of $1: J. L. Ellis, C. D. Foster, G. H. Schriener, M. G. Watt, J. H. Crumrine.

Those who gave satisfactory reasons for their failure to comply with the law and who were dismissed with a warning include:

O. W. Webb, W. B. Marvel, E. Jackson, R. J. Weaton. H. F. Piskord will be arraigned Thursday morning.

GREAT DISPLAY OF FINERY IN BERLIN

Most gorgeously Dressed Women in Europe Found There.

NOT GERMANS, HOWEVER

Many Visitors Attracted by Cheapness of Things.

(BY HEDDA HOYT)

BERLIN, Germany. — (United Press).—Berlin has never been considered a style center. One enters it expecting to find dowdy frauens with flat plastered hair and ugly feet and the average German woman can be classed in this type. It is safe to say that some of the most smartly gowned women in all Europe can be found there.

If we were to judge the styles of Berlin by the wonderfully gowned women about the Adlon Hotel we would hail Berlin as Europe's fashion center for there are more Russian sables, costly gowns and jewels worn there than in the smart Parisian hostesseries—but they are not worn by German women. Clothes and furs are cheaper in Berlin at present than in any other place in Europe. One can buy Parisian frocks there cheaper than in Paris. Russian sables and diamonds are unbelievably cheap.

Ton hour at the Adlon has a potpourri of women from all over the world. There are groups of Russian women of nobility in sable wraps, smoking their cigarettes through long onyx holders. Scattered here and there are the women of the American colony who would undoubtedly be sweeping up their kith and kin in English apron in London, but here they are sweeping their eyes over the room to see if anyone is wearing more aligrottes than they. A blond Swedish singer throws back her sable wrap, draps a wonderful rose Chinese shawl over a Parisian frock and chats in pigeon English with a Russian artist.

There is an American man from Chicago, a buyer of enameled clocks having tea with a little German fraulein who is the dowdiest woman in the lot—for to her a mark is still a mark. And the it is team time they are not all drinking tea and as the dinner hour approaches they are indeed a chummy crowd singing with the orchestra and chatting from table to table.

AFTER THE THEATRE

After the theatre the Adlon is refilled with the same crowd. Instead of sables they are wearing ornate and chinchilla and gowns of sequins that are strictly Parisian. The place takes on a formal air. Men are dining with their wives; American men with Russian wives—Russian men with American wives. Each and every wife is doing her best to outshine all the other wives. The men seem very proud of their women folk, most of whom have been unused to finery until now and are making the most of it while the mark is low.

In this mixture of foreigners, all of whom are more or less acquainted with each other, are more petty jealousies than in a sewing bee. And clothes are responsible for it all. We ask who the tall lady is with the huge beauty spot under her mouth and are informed that she is the best dressed woman in Berlin. Another spends every American dollar her husband earns on clothes; another gets her hats free because of her pretty face and her incessant raving about the little milliner around the corner; another owes a million marks on the wrap she is wearing, etc. — Clothes, clothes, clothes!

GUNS TURNED ON KU KLUX KLAN

Black Mask Identified in Probe of Louisiana Case

COURTHOUSE, BASTROP, La. — (United Press).—The heavy guns of the state of Louisiana were turned direct on the Ku Klux Klan today in the opening hearing of the murders of Watt Daniel and Thomas Richards, victims of hooded terrorists.

The black mask worn by the hooded men that kidnaped and tortured Daniel and Richards was identified on the witness stand by James T. Norsworthy, former official of the Klan, as "the terror mask of the Klan, worn when they went on the warpath."

Norsworthy declared the black hood was part of the regalia of the Klan. He said the whole hood was worn in meetings and ceremonials, but that when Klansmen were on the "war path," they wore the black hood.

A reign of terror has resulted from the operations of the Klan, Norsworthy declared, answering the sharp, quick question, filed in him by Attorney General A. V. Cicc.

Norsworthy, former captain of the Klan in Mer Rouge, identified also the "vigilance committee of Morehouse parish" as a part of the Klan.

"The committee has been blamed by man for kidnappings and violence in the parish, but before it had been linked directly with the Klan. It was thought to be a separate and distinct organization."

"The committee went around the parish and found things and reported to the cyclops and if he saw fit, he ordered action," said Norsworthy.

TOPICS OF DAY, BRIEFLY TOLD

Anglo-French Break—Germans Face Invasion—Problem of Turkey—Current Events Interestingly Discussed for Old and Young

By CHARLES F. STEWART

War damage claims against Germany far in arrears, France is preparing definitely to seize German territory and wealth to pay herself. In a military way, not much remains for the French to do, except to begin the actual movement of troops. Her army already is practically in readiness.

It is the Ruhr district, Germany's great industrial section, that French forces unquestionably will occupy first. There, if she were acting with England's approval, France would stop, in deference to English wishes. Whatever she does now, however, will be done independently, and, in fact, in spite of the English, so perhaps she will feel at liberty to go as far as she likes, maybe beyond the Ruhr's boundaries.

The supposition is that the French advance will not be ordered until after January 15, when another payment will be due from the Germans, a payment which it is almost certain will not be forthcoming.

There seems no present likelihood that the invasion will be delayed much beyond that date.

WHAT ABOUT THE GERMANS

What the Germans will do remains to be seen.

There is an element which favors armed resistance. There may be some of it, but probably not on an organized national scale. If not, of course the French will suppress it quickly, probably dealing with it very severely. The Berlin government, knowing that England disapproves of the French plan and hoping America does, too, is more likely to confine itself to protests to London and Washington. In hope that indirect pressure from these quarters will force France to change her policy.

A greater danger is that the French invasion, which naturally will cause violent excitement among the Germans, may cause internal uprisings, led by the ultra-radicals such as will endanger the government itself and, maybe, involve wide-spread destruction.

At the best, there will be great business disorganization in Germany.

Let The Lima News Want Ad Booklet Make Your Want Ads Pay

LIMA NEWS Want Ads are wonderfully productive little workers, especially when they are used rightly. Making a sale depends on four things: the market, the character of your offer, the price and the way in which you word your Want Ad. And the wording of a Want Ad is very often the most important! Even when your offer is fair and the market good, your Want Ad may fail to produce if it is not worded well. To insure the right kind of response, tell your story adequately. The Lima News has printed a booklet—"Wording a Want Ad to Make It Pay"—especially for the use of its Want Advertisers. This booklet will be mailed free to any one requesting it, in the hope that it will help to make Want Ads more effective.

Read What the International Correspondence Schools Say of "Wording a Want Ad--"

MR. G. L. SUMNER, Advertising Manager of the International Correspondence Schools, in an address before various advertising clubs in the Middle West, has recommended the use of a booklet, like The News'---"Wording a Want Ad to Make It Pay."

Mr. Sumner remarks that he has been trying to drive home the idea that advertising space is only so much opportunity to interest people in what you want to buy or what you have to sell.

Interest lies in detail. The Lima News has ferreted out all possible details in the various Want Ad classifications. These lists of essential details are invaluable in the writing of a Want Ad. Send for this free Booklet and use it in writing your next Want Ad.

DONAHEY'S INAUGURAL

ONLY a few words are necessary to tell the substance of the inaugural address of A. Victor Donahey as Governor of Ohio, delivered Monday, following the administering of the oath of office, at Columbus and the acceptance of his commission from the hands of his predecessor, Harry L. Davis.

Summed up, it is the announcement of a determination to enforce the law without fear or favor. It is an appeal to the citizenship of Ohio to back up the chief executive in his endeavors in its behalf, and for political harmony in working out state problems.

The Governor's first message to the legislature, delivered in person today before the state law making body, is a comprehensive outline of the needs of the state. He characterizes as folly past creation of public debt and unscientific tinkering with tax laws until a hodge-podge system has been erected. Much of economic unrest he ascribes to over-organization, taking an indirect rap at bloated business, farm, municipal. What Donahey asserts is legalized burglary, must stop.

He says the general assembly anticipated his recommendations in abolishing the state direct levy, but urges that the sources of indirect state revenues be investigated before that body adjourns. Donahey's idea is majority home rule in taxation and debt creation, calling for the practical abolishment of the state tax commission, the removal of all direct state levies and the repeal of all tax rate and debt limitations. Tax spending must be curbed.

Donahey deprecates growing expense of elections and declares for permanent registration, as well as the elimination of many other features that add to costs. He suggests reforms that would add to the secrecy of the ballot, declares for issuance of auto tags from courthouses to lessen cost of distribution and facilitate their handling, asks that blue sky laws be strengthened and widened and strongly urges legislative encouragement for farm boys' and girls' club work.

Better conservation of natural resources is demanded, more protection for fish in regulation laws and more attention to fish propagation; appointment of a single board of trustees to control all state maintained institutions of higher learning; better protection of the interests of labor and broadening and strengthening of the workmen's compensation law.

Opposition to a state constabulary at this time is voiced, but the chief executive is not opposed to rural police, as a matter of home rule. He holds that with an efficient national guard, state constabulary is unnecessary.

The only change suggested in the matter of the initiative and referendum is the requirement of a smaller number of signatures to I. and R. petitions, because of practical doubling of the total vote by woman suffrage. The principle of the initiative and referendum is commended.

Donahey pleads for cooperation from the legislature, in the interest of the affairs of the commonwealth. If any great measure of success is to be attained by the new administration, executive or legislative, cooperation must be paramount. The governor has indicated his willingness to make it a game of give and take with the law making body, for the common good.

The ship of state—Ohio—has been started on a new two year cruise. Its course will be watched by six millions of people.

CITY ALSO MUST OBEY LAW

THREE SCORE Lima citizens were haled into police court yesterday to answer charges of having failed to clear snow from walks about their property. They admitted the offense, were lectured and sent home. In this disposal of the initial cases Judge Jackson displayed excellent judgment. Fines should not have been imposed on the first contingent of offenders, but sterner methods should be adopted if further action on the part of police is necessary.

In his review of the matter Judge Jackson took occasion to criticize the city for failing to do the very thing it is bringing men and women into court in an effort to force them to do. The city must obey the law as much as the individual. If the city government persists in ignoring the ordinance covering the removal of snow, it cannot expect to be successful in its campaign against individuals.

Snow should be removed from walks. None can find a valid reason for allowing it to remain to be plowed thru by pedestrians and packed down to become a glare of ice.

The campaign to keep walks open should not be ended, but continued with all cooperating—individuals, city and schools alike. With all working together there will be no further need for court action.

FLEXIBLE COLLODION

Colloidon is pyroxilin, gun cotton, dissolved in ether and alcohol. Flexible colloidon contains also Canada turpentine and castor oil to render it more elastic. This may be tinted to resemble the color of the skin by adding a few drops of an ether solution of turmeric or cafron. Flexible colloidon must be kept tightly corked, for otherwise the ether soon evaporates and leaves a sticky mass. When using it, care should be taken to keep the liquid from contact with the neck of the vial, for it will harden there and prevent the stopper from fitting properly. A sterile (freshly boiled and dried) brush may be used to apply it to the skin, or a toothpick with a wisp of cotton wrapped about its tip, and this should be discarded after use. No such medicament should be applied with the stopper or any contrivance permanently attached to the stopper, for that is an uncleanly practice, from the surgical point of view and paves the way for infection or blood poisoning.

Flexible colloidon should be used invariably instead of court plaster. If the surface is perfectly dry the colloidon will adhere and form what is practically an impervious protective covering for minor abrasions, scratches or wounds. Several layers may be applied successively, each being allowed to dry before the next is applied, or when the lesion to be dressed is an inch or more in area the colloidon may be reinforced with thin wisps of absorbent cotton or single layers of surgeon's gauze.

Such a dressing is ideal for nearly all trifling wounds, if applied immediately after the swabbing with tincture of iodine.

Flexible colloidon is an excellent protective covering for cracked lips, nipples, finger tips, for hangnails or other raw or ragged edges, provided these are clean and not already infected and inflamed. It should not be applied if inflammation is present, but rather a bulky wet absorbent dressing is in order then. It may be well to touch such lesions with tincture of iodine before applying the colloidon.

Perhaps the best of all "corn cures" is a solution of 30 grains of salicylic acid in half an ounce of flexible colloidon, painted on the corn daily for a week or more. This is also a good application for softening and removing callouses about the soles of the feet. The same "corn cure" will in many cases dispose of warts. But by no means should such a remedy be applied to a bunion, which is as different from a wart as paralysis is from that tired feeling.

As a protective for herpes ("cold sore") on the lip flexible colloidon is excellent, if the spot is first carefully dried and skillfully coated with the moisture proof inconspicuous dressing. It is also a comfortable dressing for the very painful herpes zoster ("shingles") upon any part of the skin if applied before the lesions suppurate. Here the entire involved area of skin should be covered with a coating of colloidon, and when dry a thick padding of cotton or wool and a snug bandage.

Daily painting of the fingernails with flexible colloidon containing 20 grains of powdered speac to the ounce has apparently broken the nail biting habit in some cases, tho speac is likely to excite an eruption on the skin of the fingers.

SAD LIVES

The people who live in an underwear ad
Must have an embarrassed career,
They're forced to go 'round pretty nearly unclad
Except for some underwear sheer,
Or woollens, of course, when the weather is bad
Along at this time of the year,
And dressed in such fashion—it's quite negliges.
They have to go forth to their work or their play.

And then there's the case of the hostess maid,
Who's seldom permitted to dress,
But has to be more or less lightly arrayed
(It couldn't be very much less)
In order that hostess may be displayed

In all its luxuriousness.
(Poor girl, tho she's pretty and dainty no doubt, She's kept in her boudoir and never let out.)

But saddest of all is the life of the woman
Who lives in the bath night and day,
In order that pictures of her may illumine
The ads which the plumbers display.

For all that she wears—it is rather inhuman,
Is simply a mantle of spray.
Observing these unlucky people, I'm glad
That I do not live in a magazine ad!

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Quickly and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Get 3 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugstore, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time. It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "3 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

—BY RAFAEL SABATINI

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PETER BLOOD is wrongly convicted of treason against the English king. He and JEREMY PITT, among others, become the slaves of COLONEL BISHOP. Barbedes plant, er and uncle of ARABELLA, between whom and Peter Blood an interesting friendship springs up. A Spanish ship conquers the island but is captured through the strategy of Blood, who heads a boarding party of slaves. DON DINGO, commander of the vessel, who was given freedom of the ship, attempts to betray Captain Blood and his fellow captives. Blood sails to Tortuga, headquarters of buccaneros, where he joins with LEVASSEUR, another adventurer.

CHAPTER XIV

Levasseur's Heroic

It would be some time before ten o'clock on the following morning, a full hour before the time appointed for sailing, when a canoe brought up alongside La Foudre, and a half-caste Indian stepped out of her and went up the ladder. He was the bearer of a folded scrap of paper for Captain Levasseur.

Its contents may be roughly translated thus:

"My well-beloved—I am in the Dutch brig Jongvrouw, which is about to sail. Resolved to separate us forever, my cruel father is sending me to Europe in my brother's charge. I implore you, come to my rescue. Deliver me, my well-beloved hero!—Your desolated Madeleine, who loves you."

The well-beloved hero was moved to the soul of the Dutch brig. He swept the bay for the Dutch brig, which he knew had been due to sail for Amsterdam with a cargo of hides and tobacco.

She was nowhere to be seen among the shipping in that narrow, rock-bound harbor. He roared out the question in his mind.

In answer the half-caste pointed out beyond the stretching surf that marked the position of the reef constituting one of the stronghold's main defenses. Away beyond it, a mile or so distant, a sail was standing out to sea.

Cursing in his soul the association into which he had entered, Levasseur was already studying ways of evasion. Blood would never suffer violence to be done in his presence to a Dutchman; but it might be done in his absence.

Within the hour the Arabella and La Foudre were beating out to sea together. Without understanding the change of plan involved, Captain Blood, nevertheless, accepted it, and weighed anchor before the appointed time upon perceiving his associate to do so.

All day the Dutch brig was in sight, though by evening she had dwindled to the merest speck on the northern horizon. The course prescribed for Blood and Levasseur lay eastward along the northern shores of Hispaniola. To that course the Arabella held steadily thru the night with the result that when day broke again, she was alone. La Foudre under cover of the darkness had struck away to the northeast with every rag of canvass on her yards.

Dawn found La Foudre close on the Dutchman's heels, not a mile astern, and the sight of her very evidently flustered the Jongvrouw. The Dutch ship veered, showed them her rudder, and opened fire with her stern chasers. The small shot went whistling thru La Foudre's shrouds with some slight damage to her canvass. Followed a brief running fight in the course of which the Dutchman let fly a broadside.

Five minutes after they were held tight in the clutches of La Foudre's grapeshot, and the Dutchman's rudder was seen to her waist. The Dutchman's master, purple in the face, stood forward to beard the pirate, followed closely by an elegant, pale-faced young gentleman in whom Levasseur recognized his brother-in-law elect.

From the quarter rail Mademoiselle d'Ogeron looked down with glowing eyes in breathless wonder upon her well-beloved hero. He saw her, and with a glad shout sprang toward her. The Dutch master got in his way with hands upheld to arrest his progress. Levasseur did not stay to argue with him; he was too impatient to reach his mistress.

He swung the poleaxe that he carried, and the Dutchman went down in blood with a cloven skull. The eager lover stepped across the body and came on, his countenance joyously alight.

But Mademoiselle was shrinking now, in horror.

He laughed, as a hero should, with the tolerance of a god for the mortal to whom he condescended. "He stood between us. Let his death be a symbol, a warning. Let all who would stand between us mark it and beware."

It was so splendidly terrific, the gesture of it was so broad and fine and his magnetism so compelling, that she cast her silly tremors and yielded herself freely, intoxicated, to his fond embrace. Thereafter he swung her to his shoulder, and stepping with ease beneath that burden, bore her in a sort of triumph, justly cheered by his men, to the cabin of his own ship, where Mademoiselle

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Margery's Christmas

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Oh, look at this poor thing!" whispered Nancy. "I tell you what let's do," said Nick. "Let's write one for her."

"All right!" cried Nancy delightedly. "But how do we know what she wants for Christmas?"

"Let's go to the play-room where she keeps her toys and things and find out."

"Fine!" said little Nancy. So they went to the roof again and slid down the chimney ever so softly until they came to the play room fireplace. Then they tumbled out.

"Oh, look at this poor thing!" whispered Nancy. "She's got an eye out and no hair." So she wrote "doll" on a piece of paper.

"And look at this set of dishes!" said Nick. "Smashed to pieces!" He wrote down "dishes."

Next came "books," a "baby-buggy," a "bureau," a "music-box," a "rocking-chair," a "teddy bear," and some games.

"Isn't it queer!" said happy Margery on Christmas morning. She was all well now and downstairs. "I got exactly everything I wanted. I wonder how Santa knew!"

was confronted by her angry brother.

"Don't you perceive your wicked folly in the harm it has brought already? Lives have been lost—men have died—that this monster might overtake you."

He might have said more but that Levasseur struck him across the month.

Mademoiselle suppressed a scream, as the youth staggered back under the blow. He came to rest against a bulkhead, and leaned there with bleeding mouth.

With blanched cheeks the girl stood by the cabin table, and cried out to Levasseur to stop. To obey her, he opened the door, and flung her brother thru it.

Composing himself, he turned again with a deprecatory smile. But no smile answered him from her set face. She had seen her beloved hero's nature in newspapers, as it were, and she found the spectacle disgusting and terrifying.

He crushed her to him brutally, deliberately hurtful because she resisted, and kissed her whilst she writhed in his embrace.

Some one knocked. Cursing the interruption, Levasseur strode off to open. Cahusac, his lieutenant, stood before him. He came to report that they had sprung a leak between wind and water, the consequence of damage sustained from one of the Dutchman's shots. In alarm Levasseur went off with him.

Ahead of them a low cloud showed on the horizon, which Cahusac pronounced one of the northernmost of the Virgin Islands.

"We must run for shelter there, and caress her," said Levasseur. "A storm may catch us before we make land."

"A storm or something else," said Cahusac grimly. "Have you noticed that?" He pointed away to starboard.

Levasseur looked, and caught his breath. Two ships that at the distance seemed of considerable burden were heading toward them some five miles away.

For the remainder of that day Levasseur's thoughts were of nothing but love. He remained on deck, his eyes now upon the land, now upon those two slowly gaining ships. And then, toward evening, when within three miles of shore, he almost fainted from relief when a voice from the crow's-nest above announced that the larger of the two ships was the Arabella. Her companion was presumably a prize Levasseur put off in a boat

CHAPTER XX

The Ransom

In the glory of the following morning, sparkling and clear after the storm, a curious scene was played on the beach of the Virgin Maria.

Enthroned upon an empty cask sat the French filibuster to transact the business of making himself safe with the Governor of Tortuga.

A guard of honor of about a half-dozen officers hung about him. Before him, guarded by two half-naked negroes, stood young d'Ogeron in his frilled shirt and satin small-clothes and fine shoes of Cordovan leather. Near at hand, and also under guard, Mademoiselle, his sister, sat hunched upon a hillock of sand.

Levasseur addressed himself to M. d'Ogeron. He spoke at long length. In the end—companied by Cahusac and two other officers, and went to visit Captain Blood aboard the Arabella.

"Our brief separation has been mighty profitable," was Captain Blood's greeting. "It's a busy morning we've both had." He was in high good-humor as he led the way to the great cabin for a rendering of accounts.

The tall ship that accompanied the Arabella was a Spanish vessel of twenty-six guns, the Santiago from Puerto Rico with a hundred and twenty thousand pieces of calico, forty thousand pieces of eight, and the value of ten thousand more in jewels. A rich capture of which Levasseur and his crew. Of the money and jewels a division was made on the spot. The cacao it was agreed should be taken to Tortuga to be sold.

Then it was the turn of Levasseur, and black grew the brow of Captain Blood as the Frenchman's tale was unfolded. At the end he roundly expressed his disapproval. The Dutch were a friendly people whom it was a folly to alienate, particularly for so paltry a matter as these hides and tobacco, which at most would fetch a bare twenty thousand pieces.

But Levasseur answered him that a ship was a ship, and it was ships they needed. Perhaps because things had gone well with him that day, Blood ended by shrugging the matter aside. Thereupon Levasseur proposed that the Arabella and her prize should return to Tortuga, where to unload the cargo and await the further adventures that could now be shipped. Levasseur meant-wholly would effect certain necessary repairs, and then proceeding south, await his admiral at Salta-tudos, an island conveniently situated.

To Levasseur's relief, Captain Blood not only agreed, but pronounced himself ready to sail at once.

At sunset that evening the wind freshened; it grew to a gale, and Levasseur was thankful to find himself ashore and his ships in safe shelter.

SAYS IT IS JUST WONDERFUL

Relates How the Plant Juice Has Relieved Awful Stomach Suffering

IS GLAD TO INDORSE IT

Lima people call daily to see The Plant Juice Man at Hunter's Drug store, 49 Public Square, and give testimonials regarding the relief they have derived from stomach, liver and kidney troubles thru the use of this medicine.

MRS. DORA YOUNG

Just a few days ago, Mrs. Dora Young, of Beaver Dam, Ohio, came to this city and called on The Plant Juice Man. She gave the following surprising testimonial:

"I wish I had known about your Plant Juice medicine a long time ago," said Mrs. Young. "It surely would have saved me a lot of suffering with my stomach. Before I took Plant Juice I could suffer terribly every time I ate. After eating I would have awful aches in my stomach, and gas would form and make me bloated badly. I had dull pains in my head which seemed to be in back of my eyes. My bowels were in bad condition and were sore at times and I could not sleep right."

"Your Plant Juice has done away with all of this suffering and I think it is just wonderful. I can now eat my meals without distress afterward. My bowels are in fine condition and there is no more soreness. I sleep fine."

"I am surely glad to recommend your Plant Juice after what it did for me and I think it is just wonderful."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

Society News

MRS. D. H. SULLIVAN, W. North-st., opened her home to the members of the Matron's Society of Market Street Presbyterian church, Tuesday afternoon.

The early part of the afternoon was given over to a business session while the remainder of the time was devoted to sewing for the Mizpah Chapel.

The hostess was assisted in serving a dainty repast by the committee for the afternoon including Mrs. John Phillips, chairman; Mrs. R. A. Buchanan, Mrs. R. J. Evans, Mrs. H. C. Seebers, Mrs. J. Boyd Douglas and Mrs. W. J. Feiser.

In speaking of women, who in the past helped make history, Mrs. Robert C. Morris, Toledo, addressing a group of Lima club women, Monday afternoon, first spoke of Joan of Arc, who, when only a girl of 17 became savior of France. The speaker mentioned in particular the French hero's immortal words, "God helps those who help themselves," in reply to questioning as to why France could not be saved without an army; of her becoming leader of the army—the youngest head in history but standing out gloriously in comparison with King.

Monday's meeting was in the form of a joint meeting of the Lotus, Delphian, Women's and Artistic clubs at the home of Mrs. W. L. Mackenzie, W. Market-st.

The speaker pointed out Isabella of Spain, who was called the most successful of queens, Margaret of Navarre, who stands out in history as a literary light, of Catherine de Medici, as a girl bride, the speaker giving an amusing picture, depicting her life of intrigue in political and religious affairs; Lady Jane Grey's short reign of 10 years; of Elizabeth becoming Queen of England at the age of 25, establishing the British Kingdom thru her power as a dictator.

Mrs. Morris told how Elizabeth became the most potent leader England has ever known and of her proficiency in eight different languages.

At the age of two and one half years, Elizabeth witnessed the death of her mother, Mrs. Morris stated that a shock at that age often affects the subconscious mind, this fact probably accounting partially for Elizabeth's subnormality.

Elizabeth's fear, hatred and injustice to the rightful heir to the throne, Mary, Queen of Scots, was ever before her. The tragic life of the beautiful Mary Stuart has been the theme of more historical motion pictures than any other figure in all history.

In spite of the unsavory conditions, the frequent visitations of plague, of the unwholesome clothing worn by men and women alike, Elizabeth (having 3000 costumes) enjoyed a glorious period.

Mrs. Morris spoke of Anna Hathaway, Shakespeare's wife, Mary Fitten, said to be the pokest soul in literature in the great prominence of the drama when at its highest in English life.

Touching upon the Pilgrim's arrival in America, Mrs. Morris stated that none of the women, when offered an opportunity to escape the hardships of those difficult days and return home would consent to leave.

Mrs. Morris stated, "I believe these women were the investigators of the Pilgrim's coming over from Holland for women are by nature non-conformists, Eve being the first."

The lecturer spoke briefly of Anne Hutchinson's work among women in Boston and the results. The Elizabethan period was characterized as one in which women became more frank and fearless in expression and more democratic. The Victorian period was narrower, the books written during this period being of doubtful worth.

Mrs. Morris stated that the club-women of today are from the Victorian period and their children are of the Elizabethan type—franker, more discerning and more reliant, ushering in, perhaps, a new Golden Age.

Mrs. Walter Reminger, Delphos, will be hostess to the M. O. B. club Tuesday evening at the home of F. H. King, N. Pierce-st.

1914 Card club, Delphos, will be entertained by Mrs. Sylvia Ockenwiler, Wednesday, at her home, S. Main-st.

Mrs. Lloyd Brooks, Delphos, will be hostess to the Five Hundred club at her home, Second-st, Wednesday afternoon.

Members of the T. and T. club will be guests of Judge and Mrs. Phil M. Crow, W. High-st., at a dinner Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel Barn.

Mrs. Clarence Klinger held high score among the club members and Mrs. Walter Rowlands among the guests Monday afternoon when Mrs. Ralph Kemmer, W. Market-st., entertained the members of the Non-tolls Bridge club at the Elks' Home. A 1 o'clock luncheon preceded the afternoon of playing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wheeler (Naomi Parker) have returned from Cleveland, where they were located for some time, and are now at home with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ervin Parker, S. Main-st.

Mrs. John Keith presented a paper on "A Character, Sketch of Jacob" at the meeting of the Sorosis club Monday afternoon with Mrs. Henry Parham, W. North-st. Mrs. J. D. Jones was the assistant hostess.

Miss Mary Shook assisted the hostesses in serving a dainty two course luncheon.

Guests other than members of the club included Mrs. J. W. Lippincott, Mrs. M. Wedel, Mrs. Martha Core and Mrs. Sabina Fardman.

Next meeting of the club will be held with Mrs. F. L. Dixon, W. Elm-st.

GOOD MANNERS

It is not very often that the host is present on his wife's day "at home," since business usually claims his time during the day. There is no reason, however, why he should not be present, if he desires and it is convenient for him. His duty, of course, is to share in the honors and obligations of the occasion. When it can be arranged, it is delightful for husband and wife to receive their friends together.

Miss Mary Esther Bentley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Bentley, Lakewood-av., will entertain a small group of intimate friends at dinner at the Elks' Home Wednesday evening in celebration of her 15th birthday anniversary.

R. K. K. club, Delphos, will meet with Mrs. Lucella Kohres, at her home, N. Pierce-st., Tuesday evening.

One of the largest and most attractive affairs of the week will be a luncheon-bridge to be given at the Elks' Home Friday with Mrs. M. M. Hyman, State-st., and Mrs. Harry M. Cohn, S. Jameson-av., as hostesses.

Mrs. Frank Thomas, Lakewood-av., is home from a week's visit in Columbus.

A New Year's card party and social will be given in St. John's school auditorium Tuesday evening for the benefit of St. John's new church fund. The event is being given under the auspices of the Catholic Order of Foresters. Extensive arrangements for an enjoyable evening have been planned. Music will be furnished by St. John's orchestra.

Members of Class No. 2 of the Christian church, Delphos, will hold a box social at the home of Mrs. Anna Bell, Wednesday evening. The public is cordially invited.

O. N. O. club, Delphos, will meet with Miss Eulalia Wulfford Wednesday evening at her home, N. Pierce-st.

Mrs. W. J. Bott and children returned to their home in Springfield after visiting with Mrs. Bott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Rasor, McPherson-av.

Ladies Aid society of Market Street Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. T. W. Greenland, Sr., 230 S. Jameson-av., Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Lydia Trubey will entertain the Light Bearers of Market Street Presbyterian church, at the church, Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Rasor, McPherson-av., entertained a group of friends at their home Saturday evening in honor of their daughter, Mrs. W. J. Bott, Springfield.

Euchre was the diversion and at the conclusion of the playing with Val Canary and Mrs. O. S. Kiser holding high scores, the hostess served dainty refreshments.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Val Canary, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. Kesner, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. P. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. William Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Sweeney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wildt, Mrs. Ruth Hill, Miss Jean Bott, Miss Helen Burwell, Emmett Rasor, Jame Atmure, Mr. Nealy and Master Richard Bott.

Members of the Round Table were entertained Monday afternoon by Mrs. S. B. Ridenour at the home of Mrs. Hattie Workman, N. Jameson-av.

Responses to roll call were on current events. Mrs. E. L. Malone read a group of essays on various modern subjects. A paper on "Prohibition" was presented by Mrs. W. H. Sullivan. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Malone.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Moore, N. Collett-st.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Neville, who formerly resided in the Frances-apts., W. Elm-st., are now at home to their friends at 135 S. Cole-st.

Miss Vera Fisher, S. Elizabeth-st., enjoyed a short stay in Delphos, Monday.

Mrs. Edward LaRenz Bayly, W. Market-st., will entertain informally at her home Thursday evening for the pleasure of Mrs. W. F. Hoover and a small coterie of her intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will leave next Monday for New York.

After a week's stay in that city they will leave on a trip around the world.

Mrs. Fred Brodbeck, 830 W. Spring-st., will entertain the members of the Modern Priscilla Needle club with a 1 o'clock luncheon, Wednesday.

Miss Norine Vansky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Vansky entertained a group of guests in celebration of her 10th birthday anniversary. Games were enjoyed and a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess' mother, assisted by Mrs. George Pratt.

Guests included Misses Ruth Nunester, Fay Adams, Helen and Hazel Tipple, Eva Raop, Grace Williams and George Rutledge.

LOOK LIKE PEASANT TO BE SMART

(BY MARIAN HALE)

To look like a Russian peasant is the last word in smartness these days.

The Chauve Souris and the Russian Revue had a good deal to do in setting the new style. Fashionable women went, saw a lot of clothes they'd never even thought of before, and were conquered.

Straightaway they quit trying to look like Cleopatra and eastern enchantresses and went in for crude color—lots of it.

But it might not have been so easy to get the sort of raiment they had taken such a fancy to if it hadn't been for the Ukrainian Needlework Guild of New York.

The guild has been working for these years to popularize that particular type of patterns and embroideries. It saw its opportunity and made the most of it.

Russia's troubles landed some 10-

PLENTY OF GOOD GAMES ON WEEK'S CAGE PROGRAM

THREE SCHOOLS TO PLAY FRIDAY

South, Central and St. Rose quintets will take on hard teams Friday night, and each team will, according to dope, have a difficult time in adding to the winning column.

Central, which plays at Piqua, seems to have the edge on the other scholastic aggregations and they are doped to win by a big score. Provided that the five which never played together this season, are able to hit their stride on a strange floor.

It will be the first game which the Red and Green has played away from home and will test their ability to work under new conditions.

Michaels, grid quarter, who injured his finger in the Van Wert game, and who was compelled to drop basketball because of an infection, has again reported for practice and he is counting on breaking into the game within the next two or three weeks.

South will have a hard row to hoe Friday night when they take on Van Wert for the second time during the season. This will be the only contest staged on a home floor and is being looked forward to by followers of other scholastic teams, who have never before this year had the opportunity of viewing the Blue and Gold bunch in action.

In the opening traces of the season, Van Wert triumphed over South, which had nothing to offer in the way of passing or team work. Last week-end, however, against Bluffton and Bucyrus, the protégés of Coach Burdette presented a greatly improved appearance and displayed considerable accuracy in passing and in working the ball into shooting distance.

It will be a serious blow to the pride of the South squad if they fail to even the series with Van Wert and practice this week is expected to show still greater improvements than has been the case previously.

St. Rose, following the crushing defeat at the hands of Central last Friday and determined to regain their lost laurels, and will travel to Toledo this week, where they meet the Woodward High outfit.

Woodward in its athletic policies greatly resembles St. Rose in that it pays little attention to the gridiron sport, but devoted its athletic time to basketball.

For several years Woodward has been considered the leading grid outfit in the city, and it is a great compliment to the prowess of Coach Baker's basketballers that they have been awarded a place on the Woodward schedule.

And, furthermore, there is more than a bare chance that St. Rose may win. After the defeat, the team started to work in earnest and have made wonderful advances during the week. The status of the team has been changed from champion to aspirant, and the desire of the Catholics to rank high in the cage sport is bound to make them more greatly to be feared than ever before.

If the Delphos St. John's basketball team continues its recent victory march at the rate it has been sailing along since the start of the season, a total of $800 or more points will be chalked up by the time the season closes.

With 11 games already played, the record of the team shows a total of 409 points against 111 for the opposition—almost four times more. The average is about 36 points per game. The lowest score made by St. John's this season was the St. Marys game, which resulted in a 15 to 7 win for Delphos. The highest tally piled up was in the season inaugurated, when Delphos defeated Glanville 73 to 3.

St. John's auditorium will be the scene Tuesday night of a battle between Delphos and Grover Hill. While the latter team is reputed a strong quintet, the dope strongly indicates a St. John's victory.

McGRAW SEEKS NEW STARS

NEW YORK.—Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is never content to stand pat no matter how strong his team may appear on paper.

It is said that McGraw, while satisfied with his infield, feels that the outfield, pitching staff and catching department could stand some strengthening.

Having that in mind it is said McGraw has designs on three National League stars.

Eddie Roush of Cincinnati would fit in nicely in the Giants' outfield, according to McGraw. Roush would probably welcome a change to New York.

Always strong for Pitcher Lee Meadows of the Phillies, McGraw is said to be again angling for the bespectacled star twirler.

Now that Pittsburgh has placed Catcher Schmidt on the market, McGraw would not be averse to purchasing him. However, Barney Dreyfus may pass up any proposition that will strengthen the Giants.

GIBSON HIRED TO HELP BUSH

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Clarke Griffith, owner of the Washington team, is certain that he made a ten strike when he added the veteran catcher, George Gibson, to the Nationals.

Gibson will act as an assistant to Bush, aside from having complete charge of the twirling staff. It is said that Bush intends to leave the development of the pitchers entirely up to Gibson.

The Washington club has several promising youngsters on its pitching staff. The recruits, however, have lacked the coaching of a veteran backstop, familiar with all the tricks of the trade. In Gibson, Griffith feels that he has the man who will add much strength to the Nationals' pitching staff, because of his capable direction.

Knuckle Ball, Perfect Control And Speed Secret Of Rommel's Success

(BY BILLY EVANS)

Ed Rommel's feat in winning 27 games for a team finishing seventh in the American League race was unquestionably the outstanding pitching feat of the American League last season.

Rommel was probably as good a pitcher in 1921 as he was last year, yet few people were talking about him then. The reason, of course, is that he didn't win 27 games in 1921.

Since the close of last season, Rommel has been the most-talked-about figure in baseball. Pitching for the Athletics, a confirmed tall-order for seven years, Rommel took down 27 victories. In other words, Rommel was the main reason why the Athletics finished seventh instead of last in 1922.

What kind of a pitcher is this fellow Rommel? Rommel certainly must have a world of stuff? What about that knuckle ball? Would Rommel ever lose a game with a first division club? These and scores of other questions involving the greatness of Rommel have been fired at me since the close of the season.

Rommel is peculiar type of a great pitcher. To the fan, sitting in a comfortable seat in the stand, it is probably impossible for him to figure why Rommel isn't hit much harder. His speed appears to be ordinary, and his control perfect when he wants it to be.

Rommel has speed—but not burning speed. (I venture to say that 80 per cent of the American League pitchers have a better fast ball than Rommel. His curve is snappy, but not any better than most of the other good pitchers in the majors. Why then the remarkable success that Rommel attained in 1922?

Rommel boasts the most deceptive knuckle ball in the American League. Other pitchers have developed a good knuckle ball, but none that I have ever seen compares with that of Rommel.

It is so difficult to handle that Cy Perkins, one of the best catchers in the game, drops ball after ball with Rommel working. Some of them never hit his glove. Cy works on the theory that the essential thing to do is stop the ball rather than catch it.

With most pitchers, the knuckle ball is a last resort, the delivery to go to in the pinch. With Rommel the knuckle ball is his chief stock in trade. This is made possible because of the great control that Rommel has of not only the knuckle ball but also his fast one.

Rommel boasts the most deceptive knuckle ball in the American

Rommel goes to work on him with the knuckle ball. He may waste two or three knuckle balls without getting the batter to offer at them. Then it is that his great control proves its value. It never seems any great trouble for Rommel to come back with a couple of fast ones to get on even terms with the batter. With the ball three balls and two strikes, Rommel invariably slips up the knuckle ball.

A most unusual knuckle ball, good control, plenty of nerve and the ability to field, explains Rommel's success. No infielder in the game can handle ground balls more cleverly. When he is pitching, the Athletics have five infielders in the game. Add to this a keen mind and you have the formula for Ed Rommel's success.

Usually with a good batter up, Rommel goes to work on him with the knuckle ball. He may waste two or three knuckle balls without getting the batter to offer at them. Then it is that his great control proves its value. It never seems any great trouble for Rommel to come back with a couple of fast ones to get on even terms with the batter. With the ball three balls and two strikes, Rommel invariably slips up the knuckle ball.

A most unusual knuckle ball, good control, plenty of nerve and the ability to field, explains Rommel's success. No infielder in the game can handle ground balls more cleverly. When he is pitching, the Athletics have five infielders in the game. Add to this a keen mind and you have the formula for Ed Rommel's success.

NEW TEAMS ENTER CAGE ARENA

Independent cage teams are still springing into existence and the number of games played each week continues to mount.

The newest team to make its appearance in local cage circles is the Lima Sporting Goods five, which is composed of some of the best basketball players in Lima and vicinity. The five will take on the best out-of-town teams and will probably make a name for themselves inside of a few weeks.

The Knights of Columbus team built up its percentage column Monday night by defeating Urbana 37 to 26. The Knights had won one and lost one before the Urbana battle, and they are planning to increase their average in succeeding games.

The feature event of the week among independent teams will be the revenge engagement Wednesday night between the Lima Business College quintet and Bluffton college. The Collegians took the first half of the series on their own floor and they hold the edge because of that. However, the L. B. C. outfit has been practicing on the Y. M. C. A. floor, where the game is to be played, and they figure that the knowledge of the cage will prove to be the deciding point of the game.

The L. B. C. team has been building up a big bunch of followers and a great crowd is expected at the battle. As a prelude, the contest between Bluffton college girls' team and the local Y. M. C. A. sextet will also create considerable excitement. This will be the second meeting of these two teams and both have announced their intention of winning.

Little is being heard of the Lima Leads, but the team is consistently winning and is piling up a good name for themselves in all parts of the state. The Leads are playing practically all their games out of the city, and for that reason have obtained very little publicity at home. In fact, the reputation and ability of the Leads is far better known in the majority of towns surrounding Lima than in their home city.

The Y. M. C. A. floor is open to engagement for most of the teams in Lima and this, despite the fact that the Y. M. C. A. could use the gymnasium for its own basketball practice every night in the week.

The Y. M. C. A. is putting a strictly amateur team in the field, which will play a semi-elimination series with surrounding cities and which will be sent to the Ohio Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament in Columbus late in the season.

The Y. M. C. A. Sunday School league started its 1923 schedule last Saturday and the first games in the church league will be played Sunday, Saturday nights, the Indiana League will hold the floor again in various shops and factory teams will stage their games before excited crowds of fellow workers and fans.

WAGNER HARD FOR MATTY

NEW YORK.—During his recent visit to New York in behalf of the Red Cross drive, on Thursday, Christy Mathewson was asked what batsman was hardest for him to pitch to during his long career in the National League.

"I had to work carefully on all the good hitters," was Matty's modest reply, "but Hans Wagner was my biggest troublemaker. I always breathed a sigh of relief when we got rid of Honus."

The National League records certainly bear out the impression that Mathewson had of Wagner.

Covering a period of 16 seasons, Wagner went to bat 327 times against Matty and made 106 bases for an average of .320.

Wagner's mark against the greatest twirler of all time is something to be proud of.

MISS SONTAG SETS NEW RECORD

A new mark to shoot at was set for feminine bowlers in Lima Monday night, when Miss Gladys Sontag made a score of 218 in the Girls' League match game at the Knights of Columbus alley.

In addition to the new high score, Miss Sontag averaged 50 for the three game series.

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

NO. 7—MOST UNUSUAL DEBUT I EVER SAW

The debut of any recruit pitcher in the majors is the big event of his baseball career.

I have seen a number of recruits come and go. Often, the debut of certain recruit pitchers marks their finish. Some meet with remarkable success, others have only ordinary luck, and for a great many it is a calamity.

The most unusual debut I ever saw a recruit pitcher make in the majors, was put on by Ray Keating, who for a number of years was a valuable member of the New York Yankees' pitching staff.

Keating was a spit-ball pitcher, and he had a varied assortment of most deceivers. The umpire who called balls and strikes with Keating during the pitching always had a busy day.

The first time I ever saw Keating was in a game at St. Louis. The Browns were leading by a top-stead score. A Yankee pinch hitter was sent in to bat in the eighth inning for the pitcher, and Keating was delegated to work the last half of the inning.

Gossip had been going the rounds that Keating had a choice lot of foolers, but lacked control. Before the inning was over I was positive that gossip was correct for once.

Keating walked the first man to face him, the count being three balls and two strikes when the final pitch went out. The next batter struck out, once again the count being three and two, when the batsman offered at the next pitch and missed. To make a long story short, Keating walked the first, third and fifth batsman to face him. He struck out the second, fourth and sixth hitter.

Gibbons announced today that he was on his way to "see what all the goings was about in New York and if there were any fights to be passed out, to get in on one or two."

Came to do all the talking, but the has been "hot up" to the conversational stage by his failure to get any action out of his challenges and has this to say:

"I must get a shot at Dempsey's title this summer. We have challenged him twice and two clubs have made him good offers to meet me, but he hasn't even answered them. Why is he going to box? I not only want a Dempsey match, but a contest with any of the other contenders."

The New York boxing commission asked me to fight Bill Brennan, but Floyd Johnson got the match. Brennan wouldn't go into the ring with me with a pair of six-ounce gloves instead of gloves and the same holds good for Johnson. I'd like to find some way to make the two of them give me a chance."

Gibbons and Kane are heading in to talk to Tex Rickard and to sit in on the Brennan-Johnson match Friday night which is drawing all the celebrities but the champion himself.

Jess Willard is now in town with a double chin on his huge chest, a waist line like a politician and 235 pounds of flesh. Since he was here the last time the former champion has lost four years.

"Where do they get that stuff that I'm 40 years old? I'm only 36 and I got a birth certificate to show it," he said.

Willard said he didn't intend to do much talking until he had a chat with Rickard who is to return to New York tomorrow.

"I came to talk to Rickard about another bout with Dempsey. I'm in good shape and I can train down to 175 pounds. I'll have more than a good chance to beat Dempsey if I meet him again. I made the mistake in Toledo of under-estimating him, but I will never make that mistake again."

Since the majority of players are sophomores, the holiday games, lost by a small margin by Wooster to the Roses of Cleveland, and Finances of Akron, indicate the potential strength of the Presbyterians, fans say.

The other players may be shifted as the season progresses. Starr, 200 pound back who won his letter this fall, will be used at center, according to the coaches. The only other sure berth is right forward, filled by Van Nest.

Atkinson, Mitchell, M. Clark, Jinkins are possibilities for left forward. At guard, Holes is using Hurst or Manley, and Montgomery, a combination that has shown as good defense as any displayed by last year's championship team.

Wooster will meet Reserve January 11th, and Mt. Union, January 13th, on the home floor before hitting the trail to play Dennison at Granville, January 20th, and Case at Cleveland, January 27th.

SEVEN DAYS AND SEVEN NIGHTS IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK — (Special)—Saw Ethel Barrymore in "Romeo and Juliet." She never acted better, but never was worse cast. Saw "The Stranger's Banquet," in which film Marshall Neilan does the small things exceedingly well, but is ineffective in telling his story. Saw Will Hays. He would have made a great actor, for he is emotional, imaginative and very expressive. Saw thousands with faces turned heavenward listening to the chimes of old Trinity playing "Nearer, My God to Thee." New Year's Eve, while one stunk into a doorway to drink bottle hooch, as they call it. Saw the Equity Players in "Why Not?" Jesse Lynch Williams' clever satire on divorce.

Almost every line of it is an epitaph. . . . Saw Gloria Swanson appear in so many different dresses that she didn't have time to act in "My American Wife." . . . Saw "Will Shakespeare," one of these plays which one remembers for years, keeping it as a standard by which to judge other plays. Saw Lloyd Hamilton in "The Speeder" at the Rivoli and heard the heartiest laughter I have heard on Broadway in several months. Saw Emanuel Cohen, editor of Patho News reel. His job is much like that of managing editor of a big newspaper. Each of his reporters is a photographer. Marshall Neilan is rehearsing "The Ingrate," written by himself.

PHYLLIS HAVER. She has starred on her first starring picture, "The Extra Girl." Phyllis started as an extra girl in Sennett comedies.

MARGUERITE DE LA MOTTE. She says she doesn't want to play vamp parts because that envelops the actress in a "vicious personality."

PLANTS COMBINE

Plans Completed for Merger of Steel Companies

YOUNGSTOWN — (United Press)—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has arranged to purchase the assets of the Steel and Tube Company of Chicago, President James A. Campbell, of Sheet and Tube announced officially today.

Meetings of stockholders and directors of the two companies will be called as soon as possible to ratify the transactions, it is stated.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube recently bought the Brier Hill Steel Company here.

Acquisition of the two properties will make it the third largest steel company in the United States, out-ranked only by the Bethlehem and the United States Steel Corporation. It will be the largest independent pipe manufacturer in the United States.

DR. BRUNDAGE IS NAMED

DELPHOS HEALTH OFFICER

Dr. N. Brundage was re-elected health commission of Delphos at a meeting Monday night of the Delphos board of health.

M. H. Westerlich was again chosen as vice-president. Mayor J. K. Williams is president of the office.

Louis Oelberg, clerk, was again elected to that position, which also entails the duties of sanitary officer.

REHEARSAL HELD

Work on the opera, "O Hara San," to be staged February 2 by Jefferson high school talent at Delphos, was advanced at a rehearsal held Monday night under direction of Prof. J. A. Biesse, high school musical director. Forty students will be in the cast.

WORKMAN ELECTROCUTED

Word was received on Monday of the death of John Schumm, 28, St. Marys, formerly a fireman on the Western Ohio Traction line. Death was due to accidental electrocution, while at work near Jacksonsville, Pa. The body will be brought to Wapakoneta by the widow, where interment will be made.

MASSACRE TRIAL NEARS END

Herrin Mine Case Expected to Close This Week

MARION, Ill. — (United Press)—The first Herrin Massacre trial swung into its final lap today.

With the major portion of two evidence completed the defense was expected to rush the case to a close this week.

"We have proved a case of justifiable homicide by showing that professional gunmen came into William and committed acts of violence ranging from assault and highway robbery to unprovoked murder," A. V. Kerr, leader of the defense attorneys declared.

"The press throughout the country has been debauched with tales of murder committed by union miners. We have shown and will further show that the real crime was committed by professional gunmen and the men who sent them here."

Attorneys for the prosecution admitted the guards at the Lester mine have been guilty of minor abuses but contended that when the guards laid down their weapons and surrendered to the mob, that incident was closed. The state charges that when the mob took advantage of the surrender and massacred the prisoners, it was a pure case of murder.

The state started its testimony on December 12, and completed its case in seven court days. The high point of the state's evidence was the appearance of four survivors of the riot on the stand.

They painted a graphic picture of the "death march" and identified the five defendants as members of the mob.

William Cairns, one of the guards, declared Otis Clark and Peter Miller, two of the men on trial, were members of the attacking forces.

"Clark made a speech to the mob at Creshaw Crossing," Cairns said. "He urged the mob to kill all and end the breed of them."

Cairns asserted Miller was guilty of atrocities in the power house woods.

CAGE SERIES TO OPEN
Inter-class basketball at Jefferson high school, Delphos, will begin Friday night with a game between the seniors and juniors and one between the sophomores and freshmen. Eugene Gorrell, athletic coach, will referee boys' games and Miss Nancy Williams the girls' contests. The series will continue until March.

Public Wedding, Orpheum Stage Thursday

LIMA Theatre goes will be treated to something new in the way of a novelty when two members of the Bert Smith Co. now appearing at the New Orpheum Theatre will have a public wedding.

Budd Clark and Jeanne Marcelle, are the two members that will be united in matrimony. Bert Smith, owner of the "Ragtime Wonders" always on the lookout for something new conceived the idea of giving the couple a public marriage as they could not get the necessary time to go on a honeymoon so Bert offered the couple a public wedding with the audience as the wedding guests. A local "Justice of Peace" will perform the wedding ceremony, and a real wedding in every respect, will be given.

Elks' Christmas Party Filmed by Mr. Gramm

AMONG the several film subjects accompanying the showing of "The Silent Call" at the Sigma theatre this week, appears the filming of the Lima Elks' Christmas Party for kiddies, at which over two thousand children of Lima were royally entertained and presented with Christmas goodies and toys, on Christmas Day.

Mr. Willard J. Gramm, producer of the film, secured a number of interesting shots, showing the children in line at the entrance of the Elks' Home, and later their egress from the club, laden with well-filled stockings, and all a smile. The photography is excellent, as the weather was decidedly dark and gloomy, and not conducive to filming outdoor scenes, such as were so splendidly acquired by Mr. Gramm. Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the party are shown with their chairman, Mr. Mack P. Colt.

THEATRE DIRECTORY

AT THE QUILNA:—When Knighthood Was in Flower continues to thrill crowds at the Quilna, where it is being shown all this week. Marion Davies, Forrest Stanley and a host of other prominent players appear in the production. Night shows start at 6 and 8:30.

SHORT SHAVINGS

J. Sullivan, 918 S. Main-st., records the success of a resourceful young woman in getting away from an extra loyal and persistent dog. She boarded a car after carefully instructing the dog to remain at the curb.

But before the conductor could close the door the dog jumped on the car after her with a joyfully wagging tail.

At the next stop she took the dog to the curb and ran back to the car but the dog got on first.

At the next stop she conspired with the conductor. She took the dog to the curb and hurried back to the car. She didn't get on, but the dog did and the conductor closed the car with the dog inside.

She boarded the next car and went on alone while the conductor of the car ahead let the dog out at the next stop.

R. B. Tolan, 822 W. Market-st., was aroused late one night by the alarming clamor of a gong.

Two men ran away from a neighbor's automobile parked at the curb. The neighbor had equipped it with a burglar alarm. When it went off, the meddlers got away so quick they fell over themselves. Tolan noticed, looking thru a window.

Mert Seats was driving between Elida and Lima at night during the recent fall.

He came up to a flivver which had no lights whatever. The night was very dark. The driver of the flivver had been waiting for just that.

"He started up and drove on in the light of my car and wouldn't let me pass. I had to follow him three miles in the flivver's dust," Seats said.

— the sunny side of winter

California

Orange groves and snow-capped mountains bordering a summer sea. Perfect motor roads and well-kept golf links. Excellent schools for the children, cozy inns and luxurious resort hotels; or you can rent a bungalow and enjoy your own rose garden.

4 daily trains to California

There are Pullmans via Grand Canyon National Park, to Los Angeles, on both the California Limited and the Missionary. We will arrange Pullman reservations so you can stay at the Canyon any number of days and be assured space when resuming journey. Fred Harvey meals "all the way." Why not visit Southern Arizona going or returning? It is delightful at Castle Hot Springs, Flagstaff, Chandler.
